Verdict Believed Near

Calley Jury May Begin Balloting

LT. WILLIAM CALLEY
. . . Awaiting the Verdict

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — After 11 days of deliberations, the jury trying Lt. William L. Calley Jr. on charges of mass murder at My Lai may be ready to vote today. In the military, that could mean a verdict is near.

Unlike a civilian murder jury where a verdict requires agreement from all members, Calley's six-member court-marial panel needs the concurrence of only four to convict him of any of four murder counts. Should three of Calley's six jurors vote acquittal, he would be found innocent.

Any reballoting would need the agreement on four jurors, making extensive voting unlikely.

No one in the courthouse at Ft. Benning—even the trial judge—knew the progress of the jury's secret deliberations. But a request from the jury's room late Friday started speculation a verdict may be at hand.

The jurors sent a note asking for a more legible copy of the charges against the 27-year-old lieutenant who is accused of murdering 102 Vietnamese civilians—30 in one spot, 70 in another and a man and a child individually—on the day he led his platoon through My Lai.

The speculation was that they needed the charge sheet to follow the five-page multiple choice worksheet on which they must mark their findings.

On each of the four specifications there are four possible verdicts: premeditated murder unpremeditated murder, voluntary manslaughter and acquittal.

Additionally, on the mass murder charges, the jurors can find that fewer civilians died than were charged by the government. And, finally, on the count involving the child, they can reduce the finding to assault with intent to kill.

If a guilty verdict is reached, the jury must again retire to determine the sentence. For premeditated murder the choice is between life in prison and death. Unpremeditated murder is punishable by a term of up to life in prison. For manslaughter, Calley could be sentenced to 10 years on each of four counts.

If there is a conviction the defense is permitted to introduce testimony and witnesses for "extenuation and mitigation."

That might include people who can attest to the young defendant's character, or psychiatrists to give further testimony about his background and mental processes. The defense has claimed that Calley's mind was so impaired by the stress of combat that he could not reason out the legality of orders to kill civilians—which he claimed to have received.

Any sentence will be automatically reviewed and the final decision on a death sentence could go as high as the President.

Should the jury not have a verdict today it will be permitted to deliberate Sunday—but not to return its findings. The trial judge said there will be no court session requiring his presence and that of stenographers and other court personnel.

Preparing Revised State Budget

Long Session for Lawmakers

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The legislature conducted a rare weekend working session today, as Republican leaders intensified efforts to win rank-and-file agreement on cutbacks in Gov. Rockefeller's budget.

Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea and Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges scheduled afternoon conferences of the GOP majorities to discuss details of an economy agreement worked out with Rockefeller.

"We've been working 16 to 18 hours a day on this budget," H. Clark Bell, Ulster County Assemblyman, told The Freeman. "We want to avoid a situation like in 1965 when the state was without a budget and its employes had to be paid in scrip."

Bell said his Mandates Committee is working on some "Explosive legislation" considering among other things, the abolition of all sabbatical leaves for one year for a saving of $50,000,000; a one year freeze on pensions for "a staggering savings" and possible abolition of the revenue sharing system with localities. "There are more than 50 towns in the state that have no real estae tax because of revenue sharing," Bell said.

H. CLARK BELL

The leaders said they would keep the legislature on the job through Sunday, if necessary, to prepare a revised budget for adoption by the April 1 start of the state's new fiscal year.

Their prolonged drive for a budget settlement hit a snag Friday, when GOP lawmakers from Nassau and Westchester counties objected angrily to a proposed cutback in the level of public school aid that Rockefeller had proposed.

Legislators from the two counties, whose school financing problems have been compounded by rapid population growth, served notice on the leaders that they not accept any plan that included a school aid cut.

"There are a lot of problems, Brydges said, in acknowledging the school-aid uprising Friday. "No budget agreement today and possibly not tomorrow," he added.

Duryea appeared to be more optimistic, however. He conceded that there was some dissatisfaction in the ranks but expressed hope that agreement from the members would be forthcoming today.

The GOP leaders seek to round up enough votes to pass the budget by Wednesday without having to forage for support within the ranks of the Democratic minority. The Democrats have their own budget-cutting plan and are loathe to help their Republican rivals.

While Duryea and Brydges withheld details of their agreement with Rockefeller, other sources said it contemplated cuts of about $700 million in the $8.45-billion spending plan that Rockefeller originally had advocated. The keystone is a $400-million reduction in state-aid outlays for welfare, education and unrestricted aid to municipalities.

The sources said the high-level agreement contemplated deletion of the income-tax increase that Rockfeller had sought, together with elimination of his proposed boost in motor-vehicle registration charges.

The remaining elements in Rockefeller's $1.1-billion tax program—which the legislature presumably would be asked to accept—are a one-cent increase in the state sales tax, increases in various taxes on business profits and higher levies on cigarettes and liquor. The fate of Rockefeller's proposed cent-a-gallon boost in the gasoline tax was not known.

Apart from the objections of GOP legislators to the school-aid cutback, various senators and assemblymen were opposed to any tax increase whatsoever.

Bandits Get $1 Million From British Armored Car

LONDON (UPI) — A masked gang, operating with precision timing, robbed an armored car of $1.09 million in cash Friday, locked the four-man crew in the back of the vehicle and escaped in suburban traffic.

Police said the gang, numbering five to eight men armed with shotguns, used two trucks in the robbery and abandoned them a half-mile away to transfer the loot to two or three other getaway cars.

The holdup was one of the biggest since the "Great Train Robbery" of 1963 when a gang operating with the efficiency of commandos ambused a Glasgow-to-London mail train and stole $7.3 million.

Police said the armored car was ambushed when the driver stopped at a roadside rest stop near the south London suburb of Croydon. The gunmen left behind $96,000 in coins, apparently because it was too heavy to carry.

The armored car, carrying banknotes and coins worth close to $1.2 million was en route from Brighton to a Barclays bank depot in London. The men were changing places. One was climbing out to use a nearby lavatory.

"He started to get out — but suddenly a red Morris van (panel truck) backed up to them and out jumped what we think were between five and eight men," said Police Chief Detective Martin White.

The thieves then locked the security guards in the back of their own truck and drove to a railroad siding about a mile away where they reportedly transferred the money to a red Jaguar and two Ford cars and were last seen headed for the surrey countryside.

Detectives from Scotland Yard said none of the guards were hurt during the holdup.

He said the raiders took "only seconds" to load 28 white drawstring sacks full of bills in another truck, lock the four-man crew in the back of their vehicle, and streak away.

It was the biggest haul by thieves in Britain since a gang grabbed $1.2 million dollars in cash and stamps from a London post office in December, 1969.

Police said the raiders left their stocking masks inside the armored car with the four guards and the sacks of coins.

A firm of insurance adjusters announced a reward of $108,000 for return of the stolen money.

National Bravery Award

Saugerties Hero Nominee

By JON POWERS

SAUGERTIES

Just over two years ago, Richard J. Marconi Jr., of Saugerties, saved the life of a seven-year-old girl who had plunged through thin ice into the freezing waters of the Esopus Creek.

The official commendations for his act of bravery have continued ever since.

Today, it was learned that the ten-year-old Cub Scout is in the running for the highest award for bravery this country offers to a youngster.

Marconi is one of seven youths from New York State just recently nominated for the 1970 Young Americans Medal Award for Bravery. The nominations were announced by Mrs. Roslyn McDonald, acting director of the New York State Division for Youth.

The final winner will be chosen by the Young Americans Medal Committee of the United States Department of Justice.

Marconi will vie for the award along with representatives of every state in the union. Hundreds of youngsters were screened before the New York State selections were made.

Marconi is New York State's youngest representative.

The Young Americans Medal for Bravery will be awarded in the name of the President and Congress of the United States. Presentation of the medal to the winner will be made personally by President Nixon at ceremonies at the White House later this Spring.

On Feb. 2, 1969, Cheryl Jasienowski of Saugerties broke through thin ice and plunged into 12-foot-deep water in the Esopus Creek. She managed to hold on to the edge of the ice, but could not crawl out.

Marconi, a member of Cub Scout Pack 32 in Saugerties, was ice-skating with his six-year-old sister nearby when he heard the girl's frantic screams for help. He crawled over the ices toward the girl with his sister, Michelle, holding on to his legs. Taking hold of the girl's arms, he gradually pulled her to safety.

At a National Court of Honor held by the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, Marconi was presented with a certificate for heroism by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. The award was one of just 47 presented to Scouts throughout the country that year, and Marconi was the youngest of three boys honored from New York State.

The other six New York State youths nominated for the Young American Medal for Bravery are David Morrison, 18, of Watertown; Phillip Mercadante, 17, of Glen Cove; David Orlando, 12, of Syracuse; Frank Sauer, 17, of Jackson Heights and Brian Zinck, 16, of Ramsonville.

Susan Conrad, 18, of Poughkeepsie, was the only person nominated for the Young Americans Medal for Service, awarded for outstanding contributions and community service. In 1969, she was selected as Youth of the Month in a program sponsored by Montgomery Ward of Kingston and was later honored at a testimonial dinner at the Kirkland Hotel.

Those nominated from New York State were selected from numerous recommendations by local social service, enforcement and educational offices from throughout the state.

Nixon Action Looms

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration sources say President Nixon will announce Monday a plan for stabilizing wages and establishing complex inflation-fighting machinery in the construction industry.

The plan will stop short of a national price-wage stabilization board. But it will be another step toward the wage-guideline approach Nixon's economic advisers have counseled against using to combat inflation, even in an industry in which costs are soaring.

In the executive order calling on the construction industry to carry its own fight against inflation, Nixon also will reinstate the Davis-Bacon Act, the sources say.

That law, setting union-scale wage standards on federal construction projects, was suspended by the President last month in a move to control the industry's wage-price spiral.

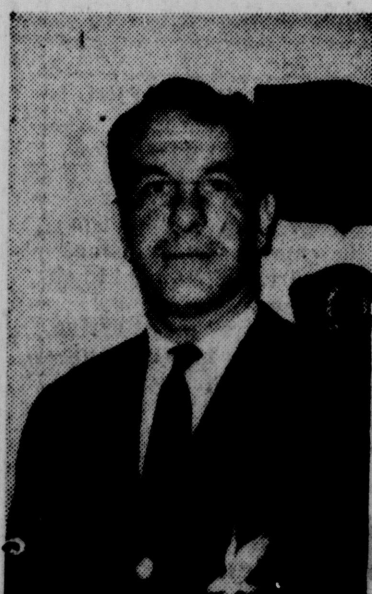
Public members of the Construction Industry Collective Bargaining Commission recommended Friday that Nixon set wage criteria and establish craft-by-craft review boards to oversee wage movements and a wage stabilization board for enforcement action.

The wage standards would center around the level of pay raises negotiated in he mid-1960s and take into account cost-of-living changes.

If any part of the industry does not submit to self-regulation, administration sources say, the White House will consider suspending Davis-Bacon again and withholding construction projects from the offenders.

If Activity Fee Becomes Optional

New Paltz Athletic Program Faces Curtailment



JOSEPH OWENS

By IRA FUSFELD

NEW PALTZ

There is a distinct possibility that the New Paltz State Varsity athletic program will be drastically curtailed this fall, The Freeman learned today.

Should students vote to make an activity fee of $30 per semester optional—and feeling on campus is that they will—the source of the athletic department's budget of some $50,000 would be nipped.

According to those closest to the situation, basketball, one of the least expensive to run, would have the best chance of surviving. The others would be, at best, in big trouble.

Each unit of the State University will be having a similar referendum before Summer recess under a recent edict from Chancellor Ernest Boyer's office which said that the fee would be mandatory only if those who pay and benefit from it, the students, so desire.

The activity fee covers, among other things, student publications, concerts, and clubs, as well as, varsity and intramural athletics.

New Paltz students have been critical of the allocation of their money for years. In particular, they have always suspected management by their elected officials in charge of dispursing said funds.

A recent poll resulted in impeachment of the current Student Government treasurer, and that in itself is a portrait of campus attitudes since the man in question, one Steven Machalow, had the reputation of being a "Jack Benny" instead of a "Diamond Jim Brady" when it came to spending.

Students are also dissatisfied with the financing of rock concerts. They have always been under the impression that the activity fee allocation would sufficiently pay concert costs so as to make admission to the musical extravanganzas free.

Only it hasn't worked out that way as entertainment costs went way up while the budget remained the same. Thus, student concert promoters often have to charge as much as $3, as they are doing for an upcoming show by Jethro Tull, to help make ends meet.

The athletic department thus could wind-up being the recipients of the students' wrath at these other matters.

Special

"I don't think the majority of the students are against their money being spent in part on varsity athletics," says Athletic Director Joseph Owens. "A lot depends now on how the referendum is worded.

"If it says something like 'mandatory fee—yes or no' then chances are it will be a negative vote. But if there is some choice on the ballot, something that explains the situation to the students, especially concerning our budget, then we'll be OK."

Owens is under the impression from his travels on campus that not enough people know about the athletic department plights, or of the similar crisis other vital organizations would face if activity fee monies were not available.

A "task force" of athletic boosters will soon begin an information campaign to "let students in" on the fiscal problem. Their first target will be those other groups such as the Black Student Union, Student Art Guild, etc., to inform them that if they vote against the mandatory fee not only would they not have an athletic program, but their own clubs would likely be without monetary support.

And what if the vote does, in fact, go against the mandatory fee?

That's something Owens and Physical Education Department Chairman Dr. Richard Clegg would rather not discuss openly at the present. They know that assistance from the State is out of the question. All campuses have been attempting to place he financial burden of athletics on the State for years without success. Chances of it coming about now, especially in light of other dollar and cents problems, are non-existant.

The speculation is that if one sport could live, it's basketball. It is relatively inexpensive to run, is the best attended, and appears to be on an upward trend with several good ballplayers coming back and a few big names interested in wearing a Hawk uniform.

If activity fee monies were not available, basketball coach Silvio Pesavento feels the sport

Sacred Cantata Set At St. James Church

KINGSTON — The choir of the St. James United Methodist Church will present The Daughter of Jairus, a sacred cantata by John Stainer Sunday; the church, Fair and Pearl Streets, at 11 a.m.

The cantata soloists will be Shirley Quick, soprano; John McCullough, tenor; and Thomas Mayer, bass. Robert H. Palmatier, director of music at the St. James Church, will provide the organ accompaniment.

Mrs. Quick, soprano soloist at the St. James Church, is a member of the New Paltz College Choir and will be the soloist in their upcoming concert of the Shubert Mass in E flat.

McCullough, well known area tenor, is soloist at the St. James Church and has given many performances in this area. He is also a member of the Catskill Glee Club and president of Community Concerts.

Mayer, a senior of the New Paltz High School, is a member of the New Paltz College Choir and was chosen to be in the New York State Choir at the Concord in December, and the MEMC choir of the Music Educators' National Conference Convention in Atlantic City.

Palmatier, in addition to his duties as director of music at St. James is owner of Thumbprint Antiques in Stone Ridge.

Speakers, Soloists For Rhinebeck Rites

RHINEBECK — Guest soloists and the choir of the Tabernacle Baptist Church of Poughkeepsie will be ministering in song during the Christian Life Week, March 28 to April 2, at the First Baptist Church of Rhinebeck.

Major Ian Thomas, internationally known Bible conference speaker and author, will be the guest speaker. He will be speaking at the 11 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. services Sunday, and at the 10 a.m. Bible Studies and 7:30 p.m. services Monday through Friday.

Warren Bish of King's College, Briarcliff Manor, will be the soloist for the services on Sunday. Robert Fisher, also of King's College, will be the soloist Monday. Tuesday evening, Mrs. Marvin Cavanaugh, of the Teen Challenge Bible Institute, Rhinebeck, will be the soloist; and Robert Plummer of Berkshire Christian College, Leonox, Mass., will minister in song Wednesday evening. The choir of the Tabernacle Baptist Church of Poughkeepsie will be singing in the Thursday evening service and Miss Laura Johnson of King's College will be the guest soloist Friday evening.

Nursery care will be provided during all the services, both morning and evening.

Superstar Opera Program Slated

KINGSTON — A multi-media presentation of the new "rock" opera, Jesus Christ Superstar will be given Monday 8 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf Street and Tremper Avenue.

The program is being presented through the courtesy of the Rev. Richard E. Lake, minister of the United Reformed Church, Town of Rosendale, at Bloomington. The Rev. Mr. Lake compiled the program which includes stereo sound track, Biblical film clips and printed narration. It was first presented at his church as the Ash Wednesday service and will be shown again Sunday 3 to 5:30 p.m. for youth of the Mid-Hudson Classis.

The public is invited to attend the presentation at the Presbyterian Church. The opera is a modern interpretation of the events leading to the crucifixion. It has prompted much critical acclaim by both theologians and laymen.

Union Lenten Services Set In Saugerties

SAUGERTIES — The Saugerties Reformed Church, Main Street, will host a Community Lenten Service Sunday, 7 p.m. The service is sponsored by the Saugerties Area Council of Churches. Host pastor for the evening service will be the Rev. Orville Hine.

April 4, Palm Sunday, an organ recital and Classical Ensemble concert will be presented at the Saugerties United Methodist Church, Washington Avenue and Post Street, Saugerties, as part of the Lenten services offered by the Saugerties Area Council of Churches. Guest organist will be Mrs. David Bright. The Classical Ensemble will include oboe, flute, piano, violin, and cello. The recital will begin at 7 p.m. in the sanctuary of the Methodist Church.

Youth Festival Sunday Offers Special Music

CATSKILL — Kingston youth singers will be among the more than 250 from the Mid-Hudson area to participate in the 28th annual festival of youth choirs Sunday at the First Reformed Church, Catskill.

The program will be presented at 3 p.m. under the direction of Mrs. Helen Allers of Germantown as guest conductor. Kingston will be represented by the youth choir of Old Dutch Church under the direction of Cindy Jones.

Youth choirs from both sides of the Hudson will participate including Athens, Beacon, Catskill, Durham, Germantown, Hudson, Millbrook, New Paltz, Upper Red Hook, Valatie, Voorheesville and Pleasant Valley.

Palm Sunday Breakfast Slated by Area Churches

Floyd Ellsworth, general chairman of this year's Protestant Men's Communion Service and Breakfast sponsored by the Kingston Area Council of Churches, has announced the program this year will be held at the Fair Street Reformed Church at 7 a.m on Palm Sunday, April 4.

This year's speaker will be the Rev. Randall B. Bosch, pastor of the host church. The Rev. Mr. Bosch has been at Fair Street Church since Feb. 1, coming east from the Peace Reformed Church, Mt. Prospect, Ill.

Ellsworth reports that laymen in all local churches are gathering reservations for the breakfast, which must of necessity be limited to the first 200. The deadline for reservations is March 28, so all men are urged to call their appointed chairmen, or to contact the office of the Fair Street Church. The service and the breakfast are open to all men of the area Council of Churches member congregations.

Percy W. Gazlay II, minister of music at Fair Street, will preside at the organ console, and a choir of men's voices, from all area churches, will join the men of Fair Street's choir for the anthems to be presented. Invitations to join the chorus have gone out to all area churches. There will be but one rehearsal, Friday, April 2, at 7:30 p.m. at Fair Street Church.

Speaker Named For Tri-Parish Parent Meeting

The Rev. Andrew Cusack will give a parent lecture at St. Mary's School auditorium Tuesday, 7:30 p.m.

This will be the last of eight parent programs toward better understanding in meeting the challenges or being a Christian parent today. The program was planned and arranged by Sister Rosemary Poit, OP, Archdiocesean Religious Education coordinator for the Tri-Parish Center. The participating speakers were the Rev. John Sullivan, Newburgh; Sister Isaac Joques, SU, Kingston; the Rev. Charles Casetta, OMI and the Rev. Joseph Schwab, OMI of Balmville. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. James V. Keating, Episcopal Vicar of Ulster County will welcome Father Cusack. The lecture is open to all.

Renaissance Guests Sunday At Port Ewen

Members of Renaissance Project, Ellenville will be guests at the Port Ewen United Methodist Church this Sunday.

They will meet with youth groups at 9 a.m. to discuss "The Drug Problem as a Person Problem." They will share in worship at 1:15 a.m. and will be present at 1 p.m. for further discussion.

Interested persons of all age groups may attend. A free will offering and donations of canned goods will be taken for the support of the Ellenville drug addict rehabilitation project.

County Murder Trial...Defendant's Wife on Stand

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON

Seven more prosecution witnesses testified Friday at the murder trial of Rodney Arnold of Kerhonkson in session before County Judge Raymond J. Mino and a jury of nine men and three women.

Arnold, 30, is accused of the fatal shooting of his friend, 31-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth (Betty) Blaustein of Alligerville on the morning of June 1, 1970 near Accord.

The 11th witness called by District Attorney Francis J. Vogt was Arnold's wife, Sandra, who told of marital troubles that developed in January, 1970, after she learned that her husband, the defendant, and Mrs. Blaustein were "dating."

Mrs. Blaustein's husband, Edward, was recalled to the witness stand yesterday afternoon to undergo further cross-examination by defense counsel, Francis Martocci.

Mrs. Arnold appeared as a hostile witness as she underwent examination by the district attorney regarding a statement she had reportedly signed. Mrs. Arnold testified that she is presently living with her husband and she commented "I still love him."

The defendant's wife testified that she met Mrs. Blaustein in a poodle shop in Ellenville when she went there to buy a dog, and later she and Mrs. Blaustein had visited each other at their homes on occasions.

The witness said that she learned that her husband and Mrs. Blaustein had been dating in January, 1970, and a short time later the woman went to live at the Arnold home. Mrs. Arnold testified that she thought if Mrs. Blaustein lived with her and Arnold and their children she, Mrs. Blaustein, would stop dated her husband.

After a week or two, Mrs. Arnold told Mrs. Blaustein to leave, the witness testified, because the woman was still seeing her husband.

The evening before the day of the alleged murder, Mrs. Arnold testified, Mrs. Blaustein had supper with the defandant's family. Between 9 and 9:30 p.m. the defendant and Mrs. Blaustein left and drove off in the woman's station wagon. Mrs. Arnold testified she was asked by her husband to accompany the two but she didn't go because she was putting her three children to bed.

Another prosecution witness was Dr. N. Richard Gershon, pathologist, who performed the autopsy on Mrs. Blaustein. The witness said he found eight bullet holes in the woman's body, which he said the examination showed could have been caused by two bullets.

Dr. Gershon said it was his opinion that even though Mrs. Blaustein had suffered eight bullet wounds, she would have been able to drive her station wagon five miles. Authorities contend that the woman drove that distance before she collapsed in the vehicle the morning of the shooting. Under cross-examination, the witness said that fragments of metal found in the dead woman's skull could have come from a third bullet.

Dr. Robert Aquilina, another prosecution witness detailed the treatment he administered to Arnold, who had been shot in the head on June 1. He testified that the defendant was conscious at Kingston Hospital while under treatment, but he, Arnold, said he didn't recall what happened. The witness said it was his opinion the bullet wound in Arnold's head was self-inflicted.

State Police Sergeant Richard Dempsey was the ninth witness called by Vogt. He gave details of his part in the investigation of the double shooting, and testified that he found the 9mm automatic pistol authorities said was used in the shootings, in a drainage ditch off the highway some distance from where Arnold had collapsed from wounds of the head.

The gun had been purchased at the Numrich Sports Store by Arnold in August, 1969, according to a witness, Stuart Miller, who testified he sold the pistol to the defendant.

Other prosecution witnesses were Trooper Wayne Lawrence and Sheriff's Sergeant Marshall Canosa.

The trial will be resumed Monday at 10 a.m.

Memoriam

In loving memory of our father and grandfather, Benjamin Gulnick Sr., who passed away two years ago March 28, 1969.

God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts we love him still:
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away,
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.

SONS, DAUGHTERS and GRANDCHILDREN

Memoriam

In loving memory of our son and brother, Lance Wade Bonestell, who passed away six years ago, March 27, 1965.

Deep in our hearts his memory is kept,
To love and to cherish and never forget.
Forgive us God if we still weep,
For the one we loved and wanted to keep.

MOMMY, DADDY, BROTHER and SISTERS

DIED

Memoriam

In Loving Memory of my husband, Benjamin Gulnick Sr., who passed away two years ago March 28, 1969.

I have lost my soul's companion
A life linked with my own;
And day by day I miss him more
As I walk through life alone.
A happy home we once enjoyed
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
I think of him in silence
And often repeat his name
But all that is left to answer
Is a picture in a frame.
Oh God, please take this message to my loved one
Tell him how much I miss him
And give him all my love.

Always yours,
GERTRUDE

Staatsburg Resident Killed in Accident

STAATSBURG

A 29-year-old Staatsburg man was trapped inside his demolished vehicle for 30 minutes early today while Central Hudson work crews and volunteer firemen attempted to remove live electrical wire that draped his car.

Lawrence J. Drinon was later pronounced dead on arrival at St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie.

Drinon was pinned inside his car after it crashed into a utility pole along Route 9 north of Hyde Park.

Officials from the Dutchess County Sheriff's Department said that he was traveling north on Route 9, and had just passed another vehicle, when the car skidded out of control. It then smashed into the utility pole. Live electrical wires fell on top of the car.

Electrical power in the Hyde Park area was shut off for 30 minutes while Central Hudson work crews and volunteers from the Staatsburg Fire Department attempted to remove the man from the wreckage.

Drinon was then rushed to the Poughkeepsie hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Dr. William Thompson, Dutchess County Medical Examiner ruled that cause of death was due to massive lecerations. He ruled the death as accidental pending an inquiry.

The accident occurred at 1 a.m.

Drinon's address was listed as Box 134, Staatsburg. He was alone in the car at the time of the accident.

Ellenville state police, meanwhile, investigated an early morning accident, that resulted in injuries to an Olivebridge man and the arrest of a Mt. Marion man.

Austin L. Tonnesen, 28, was treated at Kingston Hospital for leg and chest injuries and scalp abrasions. He was later released.

Arthur J. Doyle, 42, was arrested for driving while intoxicated, according to state police.

The accident occurred at 2:30 a.m. today on Route 213 in the Town of Marbletown, about four and a half miles west of Route 209.

State police reported that Doyle was traveling west on Route 213 when his car crossed the center line and crashed head-on into the car operated by Tonnesen.

Doyle will answer the DWI charge before Town of Marbletown Justice Robert Diamond at a later date.

Hay, Farm Equipment Destroyed in Barn Fire

SPRING LAKE

A large barn on Hurley Avenue containing hay and a variety of farm equipment was destroyed by fire early Friday night.

The building, located behind the Ulster Tool and Dye Company facilities, and owned by Jake Barnett, was totally involved in flames when equipment from Ulster Hose Company No. 1 arrived at the scene, according to Chief Clayton Elmendorf.

The alarm was sent out at 8:23 p. m. Two pumpers and two tankers, along with 25 firefighters from Ulster Hose and Hurley Fire Department, were summoned to battle the blaze. Equipment from Bloomington Fire Department waited on standby.

The one story sheet metal barn was totally destroyed, as were several tractors and pieces of farm machinery.

Cause of the blaze has not been determined.

One firefighter was injured slightly while fighting the blaze. He received emergency treatment at Kingston Hospital.

All equipment was back in service to mutual aid at 12:15 a. m. today.

Earlier Friday, Kerhonkson firefighters were called out to quell a small house fire on Route 209, north of Ellenville.

Chief Martin Sommer of the Kerhonkson Fire Departent reported that Vincent Gallagher was "sweating pipes" in the basement of his home when a spark ignited a small blaze. Two pumpers responded to the alarm, but only minor damage was reported.

The call came in to fire headquarters at 5:15 p. m. Equipment was back in service at 6:15 p. m.

Saugerties firefighters doused a minor car fire at 4:30 Friday afternoon.

Girl Arrested For Possession Of Hypodermic

KINGSTON

Patricia Dugan, 17, of 17 Hillside Avenue, Hurley, was arrested at 6:30 p.m. Friday by Kingston police at a gas station on Clinton Avenue and charged with illegal possession of a hypodermic needle, police reported today.

The girl was held over in the Ulster County Jail pending an appearance in City Court later today.

could get by with income from paid admissions and donations. He hopes it doesn't come to that. Meanwhile he is planning for next season as usual as are others in the department.

The athletic program at New Paltz is not ready to rival a UCLA or Ohio State. But it is coming very close to being as good if not better than any other in the State University system.

Community participation is greater than ever before. Teams in: soccer, swimming, golf, tennis, track and cross country are highly competitive. Basketball and baseball performances are dragging but could easily be bettered, especially if promising young performers see a professionally run operation when they come here.

Money, or lack of it, the old American bugaboo, may curtail all this.

Panic? Not yet.

Worry? Perhaps, but it won't do any good.

No, the main thing now is to inform and hope the student voters can be convinced.

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere gratitude to the wonderful friends who were so kind to my wife, Madelene, during her long illness, the doctors, nurses and entire staff of the Liberty Community Hospital and the Rev. Two Charged With Driving Stolen Auto

KINGSTON

Two 18-year-old Kingston youths, charged early this morning with the unauthorized used of a motor vehicle, have been committed to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $2,000 bail.

Steven Riddick and Paul Waters, both of 27 Spring Street, were stopped by Kingston Police while on routine patrol along Albany Avenue at about 3 a.m. today. Subsequent investigation revealed that the auto they were driving had allegedly been stolen from the Highland area.

The two teenagers were turned over to Highland State Police. They were arraigned before Town of Lloyd Justice Lewis Distasi, where they entered a plea of not guilty. Bail was set at $ 2,000 for a court hearing Tuesday morning.

Rescue Teams Seek Fate of Two Miners

NEMACOLIN, Pa. (UPI)—Rescue teams drilled two six-inch holes into an underground coal mine today in an effort to determine if two miners trapped by fire 400 feet below the surface were still alive.

The drillers reached the halfway mark, about 200 feet, at 8 a.m., EST, and hoped to break through about noon to a spot where the men were believed trapped Friday.

Mine experts said there was a slim chance the two men, Richard Randolph, 63, and Charles Gibson Sr., 64, both experienced miners, were able to barricade themselves in a clear area after a compressor caught fire at 10 a.m. Friday and ignited a coal seam, spewing heavy, black smoke up the shafts of the pit.

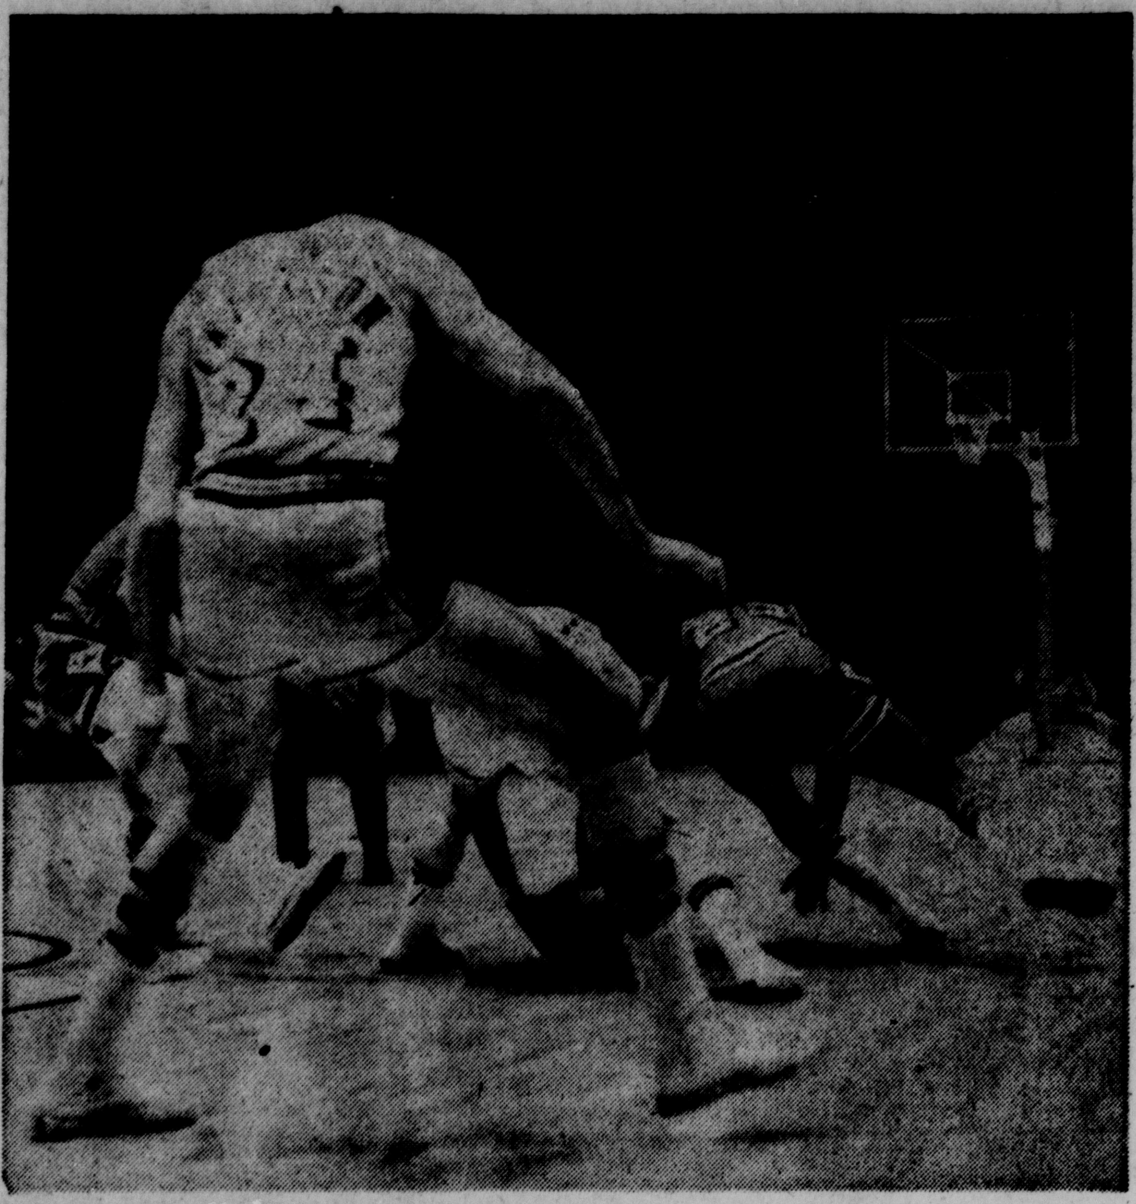
L.A. Lakers Throw Bulls; Bullets Top 76ers



READY, SET, HIKE!—Laker Keith Erickson looks more like a football quarterback than a basketball player as he moves in behind Laker and Bulls players as they scramble for a loose ball. The Lakers and Bulls met at the Forum for the second game of the Webster Division Semi-Final Playoffs. The Lakers took the first game, 100-99, and meet the Bulls for the third game in Chicago Sunday. Dick Motta hasn't pushed the panic button yet but you can bet he has his finger on it.

Motta, whose Chicago Bulls were cast as a slight favorite to oust Los Angeles' injury-riddled Lakers from the National Basketball Association playoffs, saw his club drop to 0-2 in the best-of-seven series Friday night when the Lakers won 105-95.

Baltimore beat Philadelphia 119-107 Friday night to even their series at 1-1 while in tonight's action, New York looks to stretch its lead to 2-0 over Atlanta and Milwaukee opens its series with San Francisco at Oakland.

Gail Goodrich scored 10 consecutive points in the last 4 1-2 minutes to crack open a close game and boost the Lakers past Chicago.

"The way we played tonight, I don't think I want to come back to Los Angeles," said Motta. "We're not going to panic yet but if we lose one in Chicago, then we'll probably have to have a new lineup out there. If we lose there we might as well start thinking about next year."

The Bulls were listed as slight favorites since the Lakers are without star guard Jerry West and veteran Elgin Baylor, both out for the season with injuries. The Lakers had lost 8-of-11 games when West was forced out by injury.

Los Angeles rallied from a 17-point deficit Wednesday night to take the opener and stunned the Bulls again Friday night. Chicago has yet to break the 100-point mark in either game.

"We were forced out of our pattern by (Wilt) Chamberlain," said Motta. "And the Lakers moved the ball like they owned it. If it hadn't been for Jim Fox and Bob Love, we would have been beaten by 40 points. Everyone else was dead."

Love had 34 points and Fox 17 for the Bulls. Chamberlain had 26 points for the Lakers and Jim McMillian, playing in place of West, had his second straight impressive playoff game, scoring 24 points.

"We played a very tough defense," said Laker Coach Joe Mullaney. "They are a very efficient club and we had to disrupt their pattern."

Baltimore turned in a well-balanced performance, getting a total of 75 points from Kevin Loughery, Jack Marin and Earl Monroe, to even its series with the 76ers. Monroe, who was ill and slightly injured in Baltimore's opening loss to Philadelphia, and Marin had 24 each and Loughery was high man with 27 points. Archie Clark led the 76ers with 26.

Haywood Settles With NBA

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Seattle Supersonics have won a battle in the National Basketball Association to keep Spencer Haywood, but they still face a challenge to their claim from the Denver Rockets of the rival American Basketball Association.

Walter Kennedy, Commissioner of the National Basketball Association, said Friday that Seattle, Haywood and the league's other clubs have agreed to an out-of-court settlement.

Seattle was given permission to keep Haywood but was fined $200,000 by the NBA for violating the league constitution and by-laws.

Seattle signed Haywood last December after he left Denver of the rival ABA, and every NBA team that played against Seattle after he was signed filed a protest with Kennedy. Under the NBA by-lays, only players whose original college classes have graduated are eligible to sign, and Haywood's Detroit University class doesn't graduate until June.

The NBA clubs and Haywood's attorneys consider the contract he signed with the rival ABA club invalid, but Denver is continuing to press its suit in the courts to get Haywood back.

Haywood originally signed with Denver in 1969 while at Detroit University under an ABA rule that allows undergraduate players to sign if they are "hardship cases." He became dissatisfied with his contract, claiming the club made misrepresentations, and jumped to Seattle last year.

Simultaneously with an announcement of the jump on Dec. 28, the Seattle club requested Judge Warren J. Ferguson of U.S. District Court in Los Angeles to issue a restraining order that prevented Kennedy or any NBA club from interfering with Seattle's right to sign and play Haywood.

The restraining order was granted, and Haywood played in 21 games before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit in San Francisco stayed the injunction, giving the NBA the right to declare Haywood ineligible and forbidding him to play.

Six-Way Tie In Golf Tourney

MIAMI (UPI)—The rest of them may complain about the wind that has whipped the National Airlines Open Golf Tournament, but not Lee Trevino. He says he's a wind baby.

"I was born playing in the wind. I've been playing in the wind all my life. I hope it keeps blowing the next two days and then my chances will be pretty good," said the dark-haired Mexican-American out of El Paso, Tex., where he learned that the winds sweeping the southwestern flatlands are a way of life.

"Then I'll only have the little man in black to beat," he said. He meant Gary Player, the South African who has played in all sorts of conditions winning the world's major tournaments. He favors dark attire.

Trevino may get his wish. The weatherman forecast 25-mile-an-hour winds for today's third round of the $200,000 event, and said they may veer from southwest to north—which could bring smoke from smoldering Everglades fires over the course.

Trevino, defending champion here, and Player, seeking a second consecutive victory after his win in the Jacksonville Open last week, were among six tied for the lead with an eight-under-par total of 136 at the halfway point. Trevino had a three-under-par 69 in the Friday round and Player shot 67, and said it was "as fine a round of golf as I am capable of playing."

With them were veteran touring pros Charles Coody of Prairie Creek, Ark., with a 66, and Australian Bruce Crampton with a 68; first-round leader Jerry Heard of Visalia, Calif., with a 70, and 24-year-old Hubert Green of Birmingham, Ala., who fired his way into the contenders with a seven-under-par 65.

Dave Bing Signs Pact

DETROIT (UPI) —Dave Bing's pen is just as important to the Detroit Pistons as his performance on the basketball court.

Two years ago, he used it to sign a contract with the old Washington Caps of the American Basketball Association. Then when the franchise was shifted to Virginia, Bing contended the contract was nullified.

But nobody knew for sure what his intentions were until Friday when he put his pen to a new three-year contract with the Pistons for an estimated $450,000 to become the National Basketball Association club's second highest paid player.

Bing's last contract ran out before the 1970-71 season began and had been playing out his option under the legal shadow cast by the ABA contract he had inked.

But, said Bing, who holds the team scoring record with 9,360 points and assists mark with 2,209, "as I've said all along, I want to continue to play in Detroit."

The 6-foot-3 guard, a five-year veteran with the Pistons, finished fourth in NBA scoring this past season with 2,213 points, the highest season total ever by a piston.

But salary-wise, he still trails center Bob Lanier, who received an estimated $1.5 million, five-year pact when he signed with Detroit following his graduation from St. Bonaventure last year.

Bench Bombs Two Homers

By United Press International

Spring has come to the Cincinnati Reds' camp. Johnny Bench is in full bloom.

The 23-year-old Bench, who became the youngest winner of the National League's Most Valuable Player award last season, slammed his first two homers of the spring on Friday to lead the Reds to a 10-5 exhibition victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The Cincinnati catcher, who set a major league high with 45 homers and 148 runs batted in last season, got his first home run after a walk to Tony Perez in a five-run third inning and added another with Tommy Helms on base in the fourth. His two homers were among 13 hits the Reds pounded out against a trio of Red Sox pitchers.

Washington's Mike Epstein, who wants to be traded so that he can play regularly, may have found another way to crack the starting lineup. He reached base six times with a homer, a double, a single and three walks as Washington beat Kansas City, 6-5, in 12 innings.

Washington scored twice in the 12th on a walk and singles by Ed Stroud, Paul Casanova and Tom Ragland.

Willie Mays and Willie McCovey hit back-to-back home runs in the first inning as the San Francisco Giants beat the San Diego Padres, 4-2.

Rookie righthander Steve Stone strengthened his bid to be the Giants' No. 3 starting pitcher by allowing two hits and two runs in six innings.

In other exhibition action, the Chicago Cubs unleashed their heaviest barrage of the spring with 23 hits, including a homer and three doubles by John Callison, to beat Milwaukee 12-3. Joe Pepitone and Glenn Becket got four hits apiece and Ron Santo added a triple and two singles for the Cubs.

Cleon Jones returned to the lineup after a week's absence because of a sprained back and singled with the bases full in the seventh inning to give the New York Mets a 5-3 win over Minnesota. Jones was three-for-four, raising his average to .469.

In night games, a seventh-inning home run by Curt Blefary carried the New York Yankees to a 3-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles and Hank Aaron hit a two-run homer as the Atlanta Braves whipped their International League affiliate at Richmond, 5-3.

Monticello Director Introduces Series

MONTICELLO

C. Stuart McLean Jr., Monticello Raceway's newly appointed Director of Racing and the track's new racing secretary, Ralph Swalsky, recently announced the debut of a pair of Early Closing Series to enhance the already rich 1971 racing schedule.

One, the Senator Thomas Laverne Pace for New York-bred three-year-olds boasts an estimated purse of $50,000 and will be raced on consecutive weekends in July. The filly test has been slated for July 24th, a matinee, with $12,000 added as the incentive, while the colts and geldings vie for the better part of a $25,000 added purse Saturday afternoon, July 31st.

Swalsky, partial to trotters and eager to improve the standard of racing at the Mighty M, hopes this special Early Closer will attract more and better trotters to the Catskill oval.

The Nevele Pride is eligible to trotters who started eight or more times in 1970, but earned less than $40,000. The first three legs, worth $8,000 each, are scheduled for the 17th, 24th and 31st of July with a $15,000 added finale planned for August 7th.

Monticello's 14th season of racing is laden with rich stakes events including the Grand Circuit's annual Excelsior Stakes. The third edition of the Mid-Summer Pacing Series for non-winners of $40,000 and New York State's phenominally successful Sire Stakes program.

Monticello Raceway president and general manager, Leon Greenberg, announced also that preparations have begun for the track's Third Annual Salute to Labor set for opening night, April 29th.

It's become tradition for us at Monticello to pay tribute to the great labor unions of the Hudson Valley by inviting them to be our special guests on opening night," said Greenberg. "The unceasing cooperation of labor with management, from the maintenance men to the mutuel clerks has been the driving force behind the success of Monticello Raceway," he concluded.

Representatives of 25 trades met recently to plan the outing and cochairman Larry D'Orio of Laborers 17 and Ted Daley from Teamsters Local 445 claim that local members are anxiously awaiting their night at the track.

Kingston Kickers Hit Road Again

MORGAN HILL

It's hit the road again for the Kingston Sport Club Kickers Sunday this weekend at Dalmatinac in an inter-division contest.

The Kickers and Bavarians are in a flat-footed tie for fifth and sixth place and the locals' chances of emerging from the cellar are not likely to be enhanced by the confrontation with the Premier Division North powerhouse.

Dalmatinac is three points behind Doxa in the Northern race, but the Bronx squad has an imposing 7-2-2 record, scoring 33 goals while yielding only nine. The Kickers have won 3 lost 9 and tied 1 for 7:19 points. Bavarians have a 1-8-5 rating. They will be idle this weekend.

In other divisional action, Passaic Sportfreunde is at Newark; Austria visits Brooklyn and College Point hosts Kolping. First place Spring Valley is also

Supreme Court Reserves Off-Track Bet Decision

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) —State Supreme Court Justice T. Paul Kane reserved decision Friday on a motion to have the state's Off-Track Pari-Mutuel Betting Commission declared unconstitutional.

The motion for a declaratory judgement against the agency, which oversees plans for off-track wagering throughout the state, was filed by three harness tracks, Saratoga Harness Racing, Vernon Downs and Monticello Raceway. The state attorney general's office asked the court to dismiss the action.

The raceways contend the law establishing the off-track scheme is unconstitutional because it sets the rate of payment for each participating track at only 1 per cent of the off-track bets placed. They also sought a declaratory judgment against local off-track ordinances in the City of Schenectady and the County of Rensselaer.

A brief filed by Saratoga Harness Racing said the tracks would be "irreparably harmed" if the defendants are allowed to proceed under the off-track betting statute.

Port Ewen Grabs School Title

KINGSTON

Port Ewen boys basketballers toppled George Washington, 43-22, to win the recent Kingston City Elementary Schools championship playoffs.

The two squads were undefeated going into the final, George Washington having beaten Lake Katrine, Brigham, Sophie Finn and No. 8, while Port Ewen was defeating Meagher and John F. Kennedy.

Port Ewen's wins, however, were far closer than were Washington's, causing the Port's eventual title triumph by 21 points to raise a few eyebrows.

Washington's win over No. 8 was by a 53-8 margin. It's defeat of Finn was by a 27-18 score, and against Brigham, the tally was 47-16. Versus Lake Katrine, Washington won 27-13.

Port Ewen's first victory was 29-13 over Meagher, but its semifinal contest was a thriller, 38-27, over Kennedy.

Police Protection Needed For Wrestler Ladd

KINGSTON

Approximately 400 frenzied, screaming wrestling fans fired up by the antics of hero Luis Martinez, forced Kingston police to give escort to Ernie "Big Cat" Ladd at the end of their match last night on the professional wrestling card staged at the Municipal Auditorium.

Martinez, a big favorite with the local crowd, was replacing Chief White Owl, Ladd's scheduled opponent. White Owl's wife reportedly was taken sick at their home in Ohio and the Big Chief rushed to her bedside.

Ladd, a former pro-football player who is the North American grappling champion, and Martinez then hooked up in a donnybrook that was stopped after 15 minutes, well short of the best two-of-three falls, one hour time limit, because Martinez was bleeding profusely from the nose and eyes, due to the tactics of "The Big Cat."

When the referee awarded the match to Ladd, the Larruping Latin, incensed at the sight of his own blood, leaped out of the ring, grabbed a chair and charged back through the ropes to crown Ladd in his own inimitable style.

As Ladd went down, Martinez was hustled out of the ring. Then, as the crowd became more and more unruly, Ladd was given police protection to his dressing room and then out of the arena.

In other matches, 233-lb. Bruce Swayze lost to the Mad Executioner on a knee drop and body press in 10 minutes of their scheduled one-fall, 20-minute match. "Bad Guys" Eric Von Hess and Eric The Red, took the first and third falls in their best of three Australian Tag Team match with "Goodies" Lil' Abner and Bull Johnson.

Details and times of this contest were not recorded due to an equipment failure, including the public address system.

State OKs Girls' Play

ALBANY (UPI)—The State Board of Regents made it official Friday —girls can now play on boys' teams in non-contact sports.

The board amended the regulations to permit girls to play on boys' teams "in any such non-contact sports for which the school does not maintain a girls team."

The new rule lists archery, badminton, bowling, fencing, golf, gymnastics, riflery, shuffleboard, skiing, swimming, diving, table tennis, tennis and track and field as the non-contact sports.

Rowing is also allowed, but here the girl can only be the coxswain, not one of the rowers, because of the physical efforts required.

Hoop Tourney Starts Tonight

KINGSTON

A friendly old family reunion should turn into quite a struggle when Sickler's Delivery meets Kingston Senators in the opening rounds of the Kingston Basketball Tournament at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Municipal Auditorium.

The Dutchmen take on the Roadrunners in the nightcap.

Sickler's features the likes of former Ulster County Community College stars Glenn Berry, Joe Uhl and Rod Chando not to mention current U-Tri-C standout Cliff Weeks and Ed Strong, late of St. Peter's.

The Kingston Senators, however are coached by the Stone Ridge College's head hoop man Mike Perry and its roster contains Roger Govantes, Rich DeLosa, Pat Harder, and Willis Locke of UCCC and John O'Neal, Dave Edmonds, Walt Lloyd, Charles Johnson, and Steve Semple, all of whom are going to Ulster next year.

New Paltz State Baseball Squad Now in Spotlight

By IRA FUSFELD

NEW PALTZ

It may sound funny, but New Paltz State's varsity baseball team, winless for better than a year, has been pretty lucky.

The diamond Hawks, you see, play in relative obscurity on the New Paltz campus while the basketball Birds, though sporting a slightly, but not much, better record are always in the spotlight.

As a result, Hawk baseball squads of recent seasons have not been plagued with the same rash of criticism as has been bestowed on their hoop brothers.

Until now.

The pressure has suddenly switched to the hitters and pitchers instead of the kickers and shooters. New Paltz has just completed its most successful soccer season. It has an All-American swimmer for the first time. Tennis, golf, track, and cross country teams have traditionally been, at the least, competitive. And yes, even the hoopsters are showing signs of coming to life.

It's the baseball squad that is now pulling the ship down and salvaging operations are already under way.

"There's only one way it can go, and that's up," says Joe Owens, the man with the dubious distinction of having coached New Paltz through the last few miserable seasons. But the Big O has relinquished this role for full time duty as Athletic Director, and in his place steps newcomer Pete Kramer, former diamond instruction expert at Saugerties High School.

"I'm optimistic, but realistic," the first year man claims. "The workouts have been going well, though I'd like to get outside already. Most importantly, the enthusiasm has been encouraging."

New Paltz's problems in the past have been threefold: pitching, hitting, and fielding. On the plus side . . . well, there really isn't any.

"I would say that our defense will be tremendously improved," Kramer predicts, "especially in the infield. At second base we have Terry Rancier, who is quick and a good pivot man. The shortstop will be Bernie Schaeffer, a real strong double play man. And at third, we'll have Vince Schettini, a transfer from Dutchess County Community College, who has the reputation of having a good glove."

First base is open with returnee Charlie Silverberg having the inside track ahead of Paul Grumbach. However, Silverberg's play might be overshadowed by the expected collection of hits loaded in Grumbach's bat.

Joe Weber, Mike Scammacca, and Kingston Holcumb will serve as backup men.

The catching is apparently quite solid with Joe DeRosa, leading hitter on last year's Hawks, back for another try. Weber can also fill in here.

The outfield is wide open at the moment, but Kramer can have solace in the fact that he has a large number of players from which to find three good bodies. Leading the candidates are Bill Brenner, Jim Curran, Randy Kops, and Terry Terbush.

On the mound, and that's where the story of the 1971 Hawks will be written. Oscar Kvelland, the on again, off again senior right hander is "ace" of the staff.

"He has shown plenty of potential," Kramer says, "and has been in good form in practice so far." A strong year from Kvelland could mean all the world to the Hawks. So far he hasn't had one, and since he suffered a back injury in the opening game of the basketball season, never to see action again, he remains a great big question mark.

The staff is completed by Rich Malke, a hard throwing freshman; Dean Briggs, another fireballing frosh hopeful; Tom Williams, a crafty thrower up from the JV's; and Al Skidmore, a fast ball throwing reliever.

The season starts on April 6 against Quinnipiac. There'll be 16 regular season games, and a couple in Virginia for practice during Easter vacation.

One win, just one, will make the season a success.

California Dreaming?...All-West Coast Series

Today's Sport Parade
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—I've seen a few things I never thought I would.

Open heart surgery wasn't bad for a starter and then they went and put a man on the moon.

I've also seen a one-time Olympic "sub" come on to beat the greatest; a defensive player so spectacular on offense that he has revolutionized hockey; another player who has done nearly the same thing in basketball, and still another who turned the world's largest city upside down with one mere swing of the bat 20 years ago.

An all-freeway World Series in California.

Primarily because I figure we're due for one, and partially because I can't wait to see how Alex Johnson and Rich Allen react to the entire media, and vice versa, I like the California Angels and Los Angeles Dodgers to wind up in the World Series this October.

Up and down in both leagues I line 'em up like this:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

East	West
New York	Los Angeles
Pittsburgh	Cincinnati
Chicago	Houston
Montreal	San Francisco
St. Louis	San Diego
Philadelphia	Atlanta

AMERICAN LEAGUE

East	West
Detroit	California
Baltimore	Minnesota
Cleveland	Oakland
Boston	Chicago
New York	Kansas City
Washington	Milwaukee

Why the Dodgers and not the Reds

Well, it's like this.

Al Campanis, the Dodgers' head of player personnel, and Tom Lasorda, their manager at Spokane, have produced the best looking batch of kids since the days of Snider, Hodges and Reese. Allen gives the club the punch it needs and Duke Sims helps also.

To me, the Dodgers look stronger than the Reds with all their hitting. Take away Wayne Simpson and Jim Merritt from Cincy and pitching could be a problem. Bobby Tolan sitting on the bench doesn't make the Reds' outfield any stronger defensively either.

Houston's Youngsters

Houston also could pass the Reds providing Don Wilson and Tom Griffin give Larry Dierker some help. Doug Rader looks ready for a good year; a 20-year-old Cesar Cedeno is just starting to move, and Roger Metzger, the rookie shortstop, has been a pure delight so far.

Juan Marichal quite likely will bounce back for the Giants and Gaylord Perry will win his share, after which Charlie Fox may have to scratch around for pitching. Shortstop and second base don't exactly remind you of Tinker-to-Evers either.

I still believe Preston Gomez did right by hitting for Clay Kirby last season, no-hitter and all, and I also believe he'll get San Diego out of the cellar. Which brings us to the Braves and especially now that Rico Carty is sidelined, what can you say about them after you say Hank Aaron and Orlando Cepeda.

A year ago I picked the Pirates to finish first in the National League East and said the Mets probably would come back and win this year and next. I still say so. The Mets' pitching should do it for them and their hitting should be better than it was last year.

Positive Trading

Joe Brown made some good trades for Pittsburgh over the winter. Bob Johnson beefs up the pitching and Nellie Briles should also help. The Pirates could win 89 games this year the same way as last year, but this time it might not be enough.

The Cubs have stood still and sometimes when you do that the rest of the parade moves up on you. Montreal's pitching has all the earmarks you look for — the kind that makes even a three-year-old expansion club formidable. I look for the Expos to jump a couple of rungs.

Not the Cardinals though. They finished only 2½ lengths better than fifth last year and didn't get any stronger since. I've got a hunch the Phillies will fall back a little on Frank Lucchesi although I hope not because he works so hard. The trouble is he doesn't have that much to work with.

Over in the American League West the Angels laid the groundwork for this year's World Series during the last one. That was when they dealt for Tony Conigliaro's bat. Then they got Ken Berry's glove. That gives the Angels two big plus signs on offense and defense, and with Clyde Wright, Tom Murphy, Andy Messersmith, Jim Maloney and Rudy May, they also have the pitching to carry them past the Twins and A's.

Go-Go Sox Of Old

The White Sox could climb a couple of notches. Under new manager Chuck Tanner, they showed more spirit than the majority of clubs I saw in Florida. Tanner has them running and cooking like the go-go Sox again.

Kansas City got the short end of that winter deal with Pittsburgh —the deal where they gave up Bob Johnson — and I think it's going to take Frank Lane and Dave Bristol a little longer to make Milwaukee a winner than it took Lew Alcindor.

Detroit is my choice over Baltimore for the title in the East mainly because so many "knowledgeable baseball men" say the Orioles are shoo-ins and I've spent a lot of time listening to knowledgeable men explain to me what went wrong with shoo-ins after they specifically told me nothing possibly could.

The Orioles' pitching could go wrong. So could any number of other things. Conversely, the deal the Tigers made with the Senators getting Aurelio Rodriguez and Ed Brinkman plus two pitchers has created a new atmosphere already. Also Billy Martin has a way of extracting something extra out of a ball club. I believe he'll do it with the Tigers.

New, Improved Indians

Cleveland looks like one of the improved clubs in both leagues, and Boston's defense is better with Luis Aparicio and young Doug Griffin around second. But I'm not sold at all on the pitching.

The Yankees say forget their dreadful showing in spring training, things are going to change "dramatically" when the season starts, and that reminds me of the 1950 St. Louis Browns who dropped their first nine straight in the spring, then didn't do a whole lot better when the bell rang.

"Don't worry," Zack Taylor, their manager, said. "The league will come back to us by August."

By August you needed a telescope to find the Browns, that's how far behind they were. They finished seventh, strictly —as Branch Rickey used to say —on merit.

That leaves only the Senators. Denny McLain and Curt Flood will win some games for them and so will Frank Howard if he isn't traded. Washington's best hitter unfortunately doesn't play. He's 52 and sits on the bench but owner Bob Short is trying to persuade him to pinch hit at least once this season.

Great as he is, Ted Williams is going to have all he can do lifting Washington off its wheelbase.

STONE RIDGE

Eleven candidates are competing for the top six positions on the Ulster County Community College tennis team, a new varsity sport at UCCC this spring. Coach B. Edson Decker lists Kingston's Bill Zeeh and Newburgh's Jerry Lazar as the squad's leading players.

Zeeh, one of the top players in the Kingston Area Tennis Association, played his high school tennis at Kingston. The young star and his older brother, Pete, have made the men's singles and doubles championships of the KATA a family affair, dominating play for the past four years.

Lazar, an older, more experienced player from Orange County, is counted on to help steady the younger players. Both Lazar and Zeeh are well-ahead of the rest of the team, according to Coach Decker.

Playing very close for the number three position at present are Klaus Weber and Steve Temple, both of Kingston. Next in line is former New Paltz ace, Pete Donahue, striving for the number five slot along with John Shelton and Mike Felice of Kingston.

Both Donahue and Felice, although relatively new to the sport of tennis, show strong potential. Both are products of the college's physical education instructional program, having taken a basic tennis course last semester with Coach Decker.

Others out for the squad are Harry Wiands, Tim Crawford, Leiv Knutsen and Jeff Becker.

It is interesting to note that four of these men, Zeeh, Weber, Knutsen and Crawford, were starting members of last year's UCCC soccer team.

Joan Jameson Shatters KWBA Mark

KINGSTON

Joan Jameson, one of the season's top bowlers, shattered the all time Kingston Woman's Bowling Association all-events record with a nine-game total of 1756 in this year's renewal.

The 1756, only the fourth '1700" in KWBA annals, eclipsed the previous mark of 1738 rolled by Mrs. Charlotte (Lapine) Merritt in the 1954 tournament. Rose Schatzel is credited with the other 1700 sets—1730 in 1945 and 1711 in 1957. Joan had a 172 tournament average.

Jameson compiled her 1756 with a 607 in the team event, 574 doubles and 575 singles for a game average of 195 for the distance. Anne Cummings placed placed second with 1671, including a 592 in doubles. Marion Sanford's 1605 was good for third place.

Linda Farrow, a 143-average shooter, captured the Class B title with 1477, with 499 team, 475 doubles and 503 singles. Michele Childs was runnerup with 1465 and Livia Tenedini of Rosendale, third with 1438. Childs had a 562 doubles and Tenedini 546 in doubles.

Hilda Krum shot 181 pins over her entered average of 123 to win the Class C crown with 1288. Her best series was 464 in double and she added a 383 team effort and 441 singles. Sylvia Drew was runnerup with 1239.

Shelightner Scores 688 In International League

KINGSTON

Big Bob Shelightner came within a double of racking up another 700 series, but eventually settled for 688 off games of 245, 209 and 234 in the International League.

Runnerup Frank Bartroff fired 210, 255-653, with Jack Ferraro (235-214) and Irv Brown (256) tieing with 641s.

Other 600 shooters among the 13 in the league were: Bill Noreika 204, 222-630; Herb Petersen 212, 212-625; Steve Ferraro 220-624, Lou Porsi 237-624; Ron Brandt 276-622, Roger Brandt 212, 214-620; Joe Fautz 222-617, Al Wood 210-609; Jim Amendola 223-606.

Port Ewen Pharmacy took team honors with 1006, 1006-2981. Utica Club has best solo with 1052 and Nekos Pharmacy shot 1002.

Trailways Five Raps 3026 Gross

KINGSTON

With three bowlers soaring over the 600 mark Adirondack Trailways fired a 2999 net and 3062 gross in the Central Recreation League. The team had net sets of 1002, 1011 and 986 for 2999, with 63 pins hanlicap.

Rocky Altomari led the team and league with 617 and Harold Baltz and Frank Deuire contributed 616 each.

Other qualifiers in the league included Frank Bartroff 200, 203-596; Carl Nordstrom 586, Bill Crosby 214, 203-586, Harold Van Nosdall 201-573, Tom Dunham 217, 209-560.

Jim Levins Cops Award

SHOKAN

Jim Levins, 17-year-old local skier, won the annual men's Highmount Cup for the second straight year at Highmount Ski Center.

Levins, who is co-captain of the Hotchkiss School ski team, has had a tremendous season with the Hotchkiss team. He won the 1971 Skiing Prize as the best Hotchkiss skier; was named Athlete of the Issue by the school paper.

In competition, young Levins placed first in the slalom event in the Berkshires Interscholastics involving eight teams and first place in the giant slalom in the Prep-School Tri-State tourney in which 14 schools competed. He also scored many firsts in Hotchkiss dual meets.

Levins is also a racer for the United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Levins of Shokan.

Durrett Tops

NEW YORK (UPI) —Ken Durrett, the second leading scorer in LaSalle basketball history behind Tom Gola, Thursday was selected the Division I Player of the Year in the Eastern College Athletic Conference. Jake Jones, a senior guard from Assumption, was picked as Player of the Year in Division II and junior guard Jim Tedisco of Union won Division III honors.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 27, 1971

Kingston Boys' Club

The Kingston Boys' Club will celebrate its silver anniversary of specialized youth service in the Kingston area next week. The observance will start with an open house on Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. National Boys' Club Week also will be observed from March 28 to April 3.

Early interest and financial support were given by the Kingston Patrolmen's Association and the Junior League of Kingston in the establishment of a local Boys' Club. During the early years and to the present day, a group of interested adults as Sustaining Members have helped financially to keep the program in operation. In 1955 the Boys' Club became one of the charter members of the Community Chest, now the United Way of Ulster County. It is through the United Way of contributing by individuals and business, the Boys' Club received 75 per cent of its yearly operating budget.

The Boys' Club has been located in the present facility on Greenkill Avenue for the past six years. The program stresses informal guidance for boys seven to 16. While it is adapted for all boys, it is especially concerned with boys not usually reached by other organizations. Any boy can afford to belong. The cost is not a deterrent to boys and parents whose interest has been fully aroused.

Working in the cause of juvenile decency, the Kingston Boys' Club recorded membership was 325 last year with 123 non-members using its facilities. Total activity participation was 49,083.

Why do boys visit our local Boys' Club? There are many reasons: Understanding, companionship, sports, fun, training. In addition to the physical program and supervised play, there are such projects as classes in the basics of cooking and dietary habits, simple arts and crafts, library and woodworking.

In the Boys' Club, the young boy receives encouragement and cooperation and is allowed to make decisions of his own. He also learns the pattern of obedience, respect for authority and the ability to work with others. The lessons learned early in life are powerful influences in the experience of youth during the turbulent teenage years when he makes the big leap to maturity.

The end result of proper training is the formation of the kind of habits that constitute the basis for character growth. To grow in character the child needs to learn habits of play, competition and sportsmanship as well as habits of study, work and health. Once a habit has been acquired it becomes a part of personality make-up.

We hear a great deal these days about juvenile delinquency, but very little about juvenile decency. If you are interested, and you should be, in the cause of decency among our young people, visit the Club next week. John Holochuck, executive director, and the boys will extend you a warm welcome.

Did You Underwithhold?

Millions of people, an Internal Revenue spokesman believes, are going to find that their weekly withholding will not cover their income tax this April 15. The difficulty arises from the 1969 Tax Reform Act, which sought to distribute more equitably America's tax burden. The causes are complex, but essentially are due to a certain misaligment of tax rates and withholding rates.

Withholding—the amount taken out of every paycheck—is determined by a percentage of deduction from the taxpayer's income minus his exemptions with allowance for the standard deduction. Actual tax liability is computed against "taxable income"—total income minus deductible items and the $625 personal exemption for each member of the household. Withholding rates should mirror tax rates and usually have, except for high-income individuals.

But when Congress enacted the 1969 act and included a special break for poor people—the low-income allowance—it unwittingly caused many poor families with both husband and wife working to face "underwithholding" problem, because each family is entitled only to one low-income allowance. At the same time, it exaggerated the problems of the high-income individuals, in other ways.

The IRS warned taxpayers last summer and urged them to make adjustments if necessary, to withhold extra money. Shortly, the IRS will send the nation's four million employers the 1971 tax tables. Employes should look to see if their withholding will cover their ultimate liability. If not, they will be well advised to take corrective action—either reduce the number of exemptions claimed or ask employers to withhold extra money. This way they may escape underwithholding next year.

The moon rover that will be carried on the Apollo 15 trip to the moon next July is battery-powered and will take two astronauts three miles from their landing site on the first auto trip on the moon surface. It will be an historic joy ride.

A deadline of August 15, 1973 has been set for providing passive (or airbag) protection systems for front-seat occupants of autos. After Aug. 15, 1975, crash protection is required for each seating position. Frontal collisions accounted last year for an estimated 12,000 of the 30,000 deaths from crashes. Delay is tragically costly.

Continued Role for U.S. In Southeast Asia Forecast

WASHINGTON the incursion Laos and Cambodia now have been completed by South Vietnamese forces with the aid of American air power.

The Ho Chi Minh Trail, along which enemy troops and huge quantities of war material have been transported to carry on the war in South Vietnam, will not be as useful to the Communists as heretofore. Not only have whatever plans they had for any large-scale offensives been upset by the attacks of the South Vietnamese, but they have been denied for several weeks the opportunity to build up the stockpiles needed by their forces in South Vietnam and Cambodia for the next six months. The season of heavy rains is at hand and will virtually close down the supply routes.

The significant piece of news is that the South Vietnamese troops performed a difficult job. Although their casualties were heavy, the cost was far more for the North Vietnamese.

American air support, to be sure, was of tremendous assistance. It is suggested by experts that the South Vietnamese could hardly mount a similar drive without some aid from U.S. air power.

President Nixon has said that he will steadily reduce the number of American troops in South Vietnam, but he has indicated that a small residual force will be retained there. This is not unprecedented. The news dispatches this week report that United States troops in South Korea are being reduced to 43,000. A much larger detachment has been there since the armistice was signed in 1953.

The big question, of course, with respect to the future is what kind of assistance South Vietnam can expect from America if it has to attack enemy "sanctuaries" and supply lines again. Approximately 250 American fighter-bombers and escort planes blasted sites in air raids up to 90 miles inside North Vietnam on last Sunday and Monday. It is evident that, while the South Vietnamese can carry on extensive ground operations without the participation of United States troops or the guidance of American officers, they will need air support and will have to be given helicopters and planes in the next 18 months as pilots and crews are trained for this kind of warfare.

When the American combat forces have been withdrawn to the United States, the South Vietnamese army cannot do the job of defense against attack by North Vietnam without a better air force of its own. Certainly preparations will have to be begun for the instruction of native personnel in operating planes and helicopters so that another Cambodia or Laos campaign could be undertaken by the South Vietnamese themselves if this should become necessary.

President Nixon thus far has argued that the use of American air power is designed as a "protective" measure for our troops still remaining in South Vietnam.

But the ticklish question arises as to what will be done when our combat forces have been brought back to the United States and the South Vietnamese army, while capable of handling much of the ground action, is subjected to attacks by the North Vietnamese through Cambodia and Laos, where new "sanctuaries" storing munitions and other supplies may be built up by the enemy.

It can be inferred from President Nixon's comments recently that he intends to prevent the takeover by the Communists of the Southeast Asia countries. He feels that the United States has a duty under the Southeast Asia Treaty to make sure that South Vietnam will "have a chance to survive" as an independent country. In order to do so, it seems certain that some form of air power will have to be provided. This is the lesson to be drawn from both the Cambodia and Laos campaigns.

As the Prime Minister of Thailand said in an interview this week with Mims Thomason, President of United Press International, the United States is expected to continue not merely economic but military assistance to all countries in Southeast Asia. The Prime Minister declared that, if the "Nixon Doctrine" is to be operable, small nations such as Thailand must receive "material, economic and logistic support from advanced countries like the United States." He foresees a continued role for the United States in Southeast Asia.

New Beefed-Up Defense Will Cost U.S. Less Money

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The pressure to hold down defense spending, it turns out, is not necessarily a bad thing for U.S. security.

When the Russians expanded their Mediterranean fleet dramatically, the normal Pentagon reaction would have been to ask for a major addition in ships and planes to meet the challenge.

Under the current costs hold-down, planners discovered they could gain the same end — a dramatic increase in our capability in the Mediterranean — by giving American aircraft increased ability to operate in a SAM (surface to air missile) environment.

The expense will be much less than a major investment in new ships and planes.

Defense requirements under the Nixon Doctrine call for a hefty increase in the ability of the United States to give air support to small countries defending themselves against invading armies.

This might normally call for doubling the number of tactical air squadrons. The cost could run into billions of dollars.

Then the budget squeeze. By some hard-nosed recalculating it was discovered U.S. tactical air capability could be increased three- to fourfold at a cost of millions — instead of billions — by providing improved weapons for our tactical aircraft.

In the Vietnam war, the nation depended on the draft, which Pentagon analysts now calculate is a very expensive way to raise armies. It is an especially costly method for creating specialists. And in today's army, specialists of one type or another are a growing percentage of total personnel.

Not long ago, Pentagon post-Vietnam planning was based on a very large Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps to meet all probable worldwide emergencies. That is, of course, a very costly operation as all countries which have maintained large standing armies have learned to their sorrow.

But with the need for holding spending down, Pentagon planners discovered they could provide the same effectiveness with a much smaller active military force if they upgraded the National Guard and reserves. The cost, of course, would be considerably less.

These new steps will save billions. Yet, interestingly enough, they will improve our ability to defend the United States more effectively than the more expensive traditional alternatives.

The need to save money is forcing important changes in defense buying methods, which have been extremely wasteful in past years. It has forced a review of research and development programs, which brought out the fact that some funds were being put into projects of marginal importance. It will result in a major reduction by the summer of 1972 in the number of civilians in operations and maintenance — a reduction considerably greater than occasioned by the winding down of the Vietnam war. And all this, presumably, at no loss in efficiency.

This is certainly not to say that the national defense can be improved all the more, the greater the pressure to cut expenditures. There are some areas where sharp increases are required.

But a little pressure is usually a good thing. It saves money.

J. Edgar Hoover's Trash Can Reveals He Is Only Human

WASHINGTON — We have discovered that FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover, behind his stern visage, is as human as the rest of us. He suffers from indigestion, brushes his teeth with Ultra Brite toothpaste and drinks Irish Mist after dinner.

We found the evidence, frankly, in his trash. We had decided that the 76-year-old G-man should be subjected to some of the same investigative practices he has been using on so many others. In FBI fashion, therefore, we have been tailing him, questioning his neighbors and inspecting his trash.

It's unsettling to think of a living legend like the great Hoover having gas pains. But the evidence seems indisputable.

Each day, he spells out in careful longhand precisely what he wants his housekeeper, Miss Anna Fields, to prepare for his meals. The menus are written on note paper under the impressive heading: "From the office of The Director."

One discarded menu directed Miss Fields to serve the following delectables at 6:15 p.m.: crab bisque, spaghetti with meat balls, asparagus, sliced tomatoes, sliced onions, bibb lettuce, peppermint stick ice cream and strawberries.

The great G-man specified in writing, moreover, that the crab bisque should be purchased from the Hampton General Store.

For breakfast, which he instructed should be served at 10:15 a.m., he ordered fruit, hot cakes, country sausage, eggs and coffee. Another menu called for "hot cakes for Mr. T."

Mr. T., presumably, is his ailing, 70-year-old deputy, Clyde Tolson, who takes most of his meals with The Director.

To counteract the intestinal havoc caused by such combinations as sliced onions, peppermint stick ice cream and strawberries, our trash analysis revealed, Hoover takes Gelusil antacid pills. He also soothes his throat with Cepacol throat lozenges.

The FBI chief, mindful of his responsibility as hero to America's red-blooded youth, is careful never to be seen drinking in public. But his trash reveals that he tipples at home. He favors Jack Daniels Black Label Whiskey and Irish Mist Liqueur. His trash also produced empty bottles of club soda, ginger ale and Coke.

Agnew Scores

Vice President Agnew's attack upon the CBS documentary, "Hunger in America," during his recent Boston tea party brought immediate results in Washington.

The Office of Economic Opportunity, which had been using the film for two years to dramatize the nation's hunger problem, abruptly blacklisted it.

In his assault upon CBS, Agnew criticized the editing and production of the hunger documentary. OEO had been showing film at training sessions and high school lectures to depict how Americans starve amid plenty.

After Agnew's blast, OEO Associate Director Louis Churchville hastily reviewed the film. He got up from his viewing to announce to aides: "If people want to see this film, they should go to CBS." He said it was out of date and no longer "a useful training tool."

So sudden was Churchville's ruling that one OEO official was caught just as he was on the way to a lecture to show the hunger film. He left the controversial documentary behind.

The capable Churchville explained to us that he wasn't pulling the film out of the OEO library but confirmed that he "did no want our two prints distributed. It does not serve any useful purpose."

Navy Goofs

The $1 million flash fire that recently swept through the USS Roarke might have been avoided if the Navy had paid any attention to its own recommendations.

As far back as July 5, 1952, a similar fire broke out aboard the USS Rose. Both fires started when oil from a lubricating oil strainer splashed on hot pipes. An official inquiry urgently recommended after the 1952 disaster that "lube oil strainers should be shielded from hot surfaces of machinery or relocated from hot surfaces."

Not only was this recommendation ignored, but the Navy paid little attention to a 152-page report by Navy inspectors who checked out the Roarke 18 months before the $1 million fire. These sea trials revealed more than 880 deficiencies in the ship before it was accepted from Seattle's Todd Shipyards.

A speedletter from the Navy inspectors to Washington after the Roarke's trials in September, 1969, listed two dozen deficiencies which "substantially reduce" the Roarke's "capabilities to carry out all of her assigned missions and tasks."

A separate speedletter suggested that 17 vital changes would have to be made in the Roarke's sister ship, the USS Knox, before the Navy could accept it. The Knox also was disabled by fire recently.

In a letter dated December 19, 1969, Cmdr. W. A. Lamb, the Knox's commanding officer, cited deficiencies in his ship to the chief of naval operations. "It takes oxen-sized men to shift the lube oil strainer and flexible midgets to perform some of the maintenance," Lamb wrote. "Hopefully, some of each will appear in the balance of the crew."

The story is told of a group of businessmen who went on a vacation in Switzerland. One evening, a professional mountain climber came to their hotel to deliver a lecture on mountain climbing and to show pictures he had taken during his work.

The men were so intrigued by the event that they asked him to serve as their guide on a climb in the Bavarian Alps.

The date was set and the arrangments were completed. It was agreed that they would start the climb in the early morning. The day came and the men all met at the foot of the great mountain. They were dressed in warm clothing and rugged boots. Each man carried a pack on his back.

The guide gave the signal and the trip was begun. The men followed him up the path, around rocks and brush and through the tall trees. They climbed for several hours. The further they went, the harder the climb became. The path grew steeper, the rocks larger, but they kept climbing through the crisp cold mountain air.

About 9 o'clock in the forenoon they reached a place called the half-way house. This was a small place about half way up the mountain where climbers could stop for rest and refreshment before going on.

The men went into the halfway house where they unloaded their packs. They enjoyed a cup of steaming hot coffee and a sandwich. Some removed their boots. They took advantage of the time to rest and relax.

When it came time to go, the guide walked over to the door and said, "Alright fellows, it is time to continue our climb." One of the group approached the guide, and in a low voice said, "You know sir, I seem to be having trouble with my foot. My boot apparently does not fit well. I am afraid it might cause some trouble, so if it doesn't matter to much to you, I think I will just wait here at the half way house and join you on the way down." Another fellow stepped up to the guide and said, "You see, my knee seems to be bothering me a bit. It is an old injury that I got when I played football in high school. Now, if it is all right with you, I believe I won't go on today. Maybe I can finish the climb some other time. I would rather just wait here at the half-way house and join you and the others on the way back."

One by one they went to the guide and made one trivial excuse or another until only a very small number were willing to finish the climb. The guide, with his handful of men, began the second half of the climb.

It was mid-afternoon. One of the men who had remained at the half-way house was looking out through a large picture window enjoying the beautiful view of the majestic snow-capped Alpine peaks. He saw something way up the side of the mountain that captured his attention. He called to his companions and pointed out a spot near the top of the peak. He said, "Look fellows, there goes Bill, there goes Tom, there goes Joe. They are going all the way up to the top!"

What a picture of life. We see so many capable men and women who start the climb up the mountain of a successful and happy life; people who have great potential ability and unlimited opportunity; but so few succeed. For one insignficant reason or another, so many choose not to persevere; they choose not to develop and apply their talents and abilities. They take the path of least resistance. They relax and remain at the half-way house of life when, with just a little more effort and determination with a little more development and preparation, they could easily go all the way up to the top."

Volunteer Army Is Pentagon Goal

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Make no mistake about it. The Defense Department is deadly serious about an all-volunteer Army.

They won't say it publicly, but some very high men in the Pentagon believe this is the only approach that has any chance of overcoming the burgeoning dope, race and discipline problems which plague the U.S. Army.

A man who volunteers freely with no draft breathing down his neck can be held to a tighter line. There's more pressure to do well from within the man himself.

More GIs than advertised are highly motivated — and do an adequate (or superb) job whether they like what they're doing or not. But in a conscripted Army, the professionals believe, there are just enough men who shouldn't be there to foul things up when the going gets rough.

These problems are intensified in a long guerrilla war. But the planners don't think ending the war in Vietnam will solve their problems.

A post-Vietnam Army, (short of a World War III) must be one which can move fast in emergencies. The men must be skilled specialists or technicians with enough proficiency to handle whatever situation they meet before it gets out of hand.

In the minds of some very competent people in the Pentagon high enough to make their influence felt, the Army that must be ready to fight in the middle and late 1970s will require enlisted men and junior officers with training and technological competence not normally possible to achieve with two year draftees.

This means a smaller, higher skilled and highly trained regular Army. It also means a skilled reserve, made up largely of men who in their civilian lives are highly competent in some specialty the Army may need — whether it's electronic, baking, truck repair, intelligence, civil affairs, leadership or some esoteric language.

The army, of course, needs other specialties not common in civilian life — and in greater numbers than could be supplied by the regular army in a crunch. Here again, the new Pentagon doctrine says that the first call would be on trained career reservists. These men would gain their expertise in specialized Army schools (and training sessions over an extended period of years.)

KHS: With Winning Ways

KINGSTON

Math, Music and Maroons are all part of the Kingston High School scene this week.

Math Team members are shining up their trophy attesting to their big Section C win in the Orange, Ulster, Sullivan Math League recently.

This is only the second year that KHS has participated but the school made an excellent showing against formidable opponents. Last year, KHS Math men came in second to Ellenville in the Section C competition.

Members of the Math Team are Mike Strauss, captain; Ed Sterling, David Oseas, Jim Corsones, Kevin Connerton, Martin Noble and Bruce Gerbarg. Alfred DiCaprio is coach.

After intrasection competition, playoffs were held at New York State University at New Paltz with teams from Newburgh, Kingston, Warwick, Saugerties, Rondout Valley, Monroe and Monticello competing.

Each school's team has up to five members sitting in on any one question. One point is given for each correct answer. Five individual questions and a relay question make up the playoff session.

Scoring in the playoff had Kingston tied for third place with Saugerties; Warwick took first place for the second year in a row. Newburgh was second and Rondout Valley and Monticello tied for fifth with Monroe-Woodbury in last place.

At the end of the competition Warwick was awarded the trophy for intersection win with trophies going to Kingston, Newburgh, Monroe and Monticello as section winners.

As to Maroons, it is that time of year again and appeals are going out to continue the Maroons for Vietnam project. Copies of the 1971 yearbook will be sent KHS servicemen overseas again this year.

Members of the Maroons for Vietnam Club are asking for names and addresses of GIs so that books may be sent to as many former Kingston High School students now in service as possible. Names and addresses may be sent care of the club at Kingston High School.

The KHS choir and its director, J. Brian Steves are preparing for High School Choir Day at Upsala College, East Orange, N.J. on April 24.

The Kingston group is one of four invited from New York, New Jersey and Connecticut to participate in the competitive audition. The local choir will sing as a unit and will participate in the combined choir grand finale of the program.

The aim of the program is to promote a cappella choral singing with special emphasis on high caliber sacred reportory. The music presents a real challenge to the singers since composers range from Archangelsky, who wrote service music in the idiom of the Russian Orthodox Church to a new settings of the Lord's Prayer by Peter Maxwell Davies, one of today's innovative composers.

The Upsala College Choir, an outstanding musical organization, will sing. There will be an opportunity for a tour of the campus also.

RVHS: 'Fires' Set

KYSERIKE

"Council Fires '71" has been "put to bed!" The final pages of this year's Rondout Valley High School yearbook have been sent off to the publishers. Now all that remains for the staff to do is wait for the great day in late spring when the finished products arrive.

Meeting deadlines for the yearbook staff means receiving the yearbook before graduation, and hopefully, by Moving Up Day. The varied aspects of jobs and the mountains of work are realized by few outside the staff and the advisors.

Three major deadlines—December 1, January 19, March 1, keep the staff exceptionally busy from September through February. However, planning for Council Fires '71 started last April, when staff members applied for their positions and were appointed to editorships and jobs. Five editors attended a Yearbook Conference in Saratoga Springs, where they were inspired by the new trends in yearbook journalism, photography, layout, subscription sales, and advertising sales.

Spring also saw ideas jell and a dummy planned. Spring sports and other events had to be photographed and information recorded. A color transparency for the endsheets (inside cover) had to be sent to the publishing company by June 15. Thoroughly indoctrinated, the staff was ready for the fall and winter siege.

Aside from production of the book itself, money must be raised to have it printed. This is accomplished through subscription sales as books are ordered well ahead of time and advertising sales. The yearbook is financially self-supporting.

Most of the work is performed by students. Almost all the candid photography and some group shots are photographed and processed by the staff. Layout and writing is done by staff members. Sales compaigns are also handled by students—all under the direction of faculty advisors Mrs. Jeanne Randall and Lloyd Taylor.

Julie Ross and Debbie Seymour are Co-Editors-in-Chief of the 1971 Council Fires. Other editors and staff members are: Ray Passer, Photography Editor; Diana Wilkins, Business Manager; Jo Ann Conrad, Special Events Editor; Brenda Whitten, Typing Editor; Cathy Salvatore, Curriculum and Organization Editor; Charles Lippman, Advertising Layout Man; Kersten Fros, Photographer, and Writers Susan Boice, Nadine Danelo, and Frances Fulling, Sports.

New trends in yearbooking make it no longer just a memory book. The purpose of the yearbook is to tell the story of the school year in an interesting and unique way. The staff hopes it has done just that — how well, all will be able to judge when the published edition returns from the publisher late in May.

In other creative news from Rondout Valley, word has been received that Cynthia Raymond, a senior, has been awarded a $25 savings bond for her letterhead design in a recent contest conducted by the Rondout Valley Scholarship Fund Inc. Her entry, The Tree of Knowledge, was one of 10 submitted by art students. The design will be used on the fund's letterheads, envelopes and programs.

In addition to the savings bond, she received a letter of commendation from the directors of the fund.

NEW PALTZ: Busy Calendar

NEW PALTZ

Poetry, play and prom are the key words at New Paltz High School these days.

Today for New Paltz High students are participating in a poetry workshop sponsored by the language arts committee of the Mid-Hudson Study Council at New Paltz College. Denna Robbins, Mary Cornwell, Kenn Gooderham and Tom Impola have been selected to read their original works as part of the program. Mrs. Kathleen Hicks, a member of the planning committee is serving as advisor.

All of these students of Mrs. Hick have been active in many other phases of school activities. Dena Robbins, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Robbins, has been a contributor to the Literary Magazine. She has participated in the school's productions of "Animal Farm" and "Rashomon" in addition to summer workshops in Bridgehampton, L.I., and Towson State College, Md.

Mary Cornwall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cornwell, ih a member of the literary magazine staff, French Club and the Girl's Ensemble. Mary is alos participating in a fencing program at the college.

Ken Gooderham, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Gooderham, was a member of the Quiz Bowl team and is currently active in the American Field Service Program.

Tom Impola, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Impola, was a freshman class officer and a participant on the Quiz Bowl team. Tom has also contributed to the literary magazine.

Senior students are going into final rehearsals for their play. This year's senior play is Roshomon, an ancient Japanese play. Performances will be given Friday and Saturday nights, April 2 and 3.

The actors under the direction of Richard Cattabiani, high school drama teacher, have been working for many weeks to insure success of the production. Many non-actor members of the class have been building sets, designing costumes and working with sound and lighting. Curtain time will be 8 p.m. both nights and the high school auditorium will serve as theater for the entertainment.

Not to be outdone the juniors are making their entertainment plans too.

New Paltz High School's Junior Class, with advisor, Peter Brenner, has been working very hard this year to bring about what they know will be a very successful Junior Prom.

The Prom, entitled We've Only Just Begun, is going to be held on May 15 at Ski Minne Restaurant. This is the first time ever that New Paltz Juniors have been able to take their prom out of school.

In preparation, the Juniors have formed numerous committees, with some 50 members of the class included in these groups. Carol Ossman, decorating chairman; Jane Gallagher, accessories chairman; Mary Robertson, guest list chairman; Judy Muzii, flowers chairman; Peter Diven, band chairman; Donna Zaccheo, printing chairman; and Suzanne DeSimone, photography chairman, have all been working in conjunction with their committees and the class officers for the arrangement of the prom.

The great success of the major fund raising activity, the Candy Drive of last November, has given Juniors much flexibility in the planning of the prom.

A further fund raising activity is the spaghetti dinner to be held at the Middle School Cafeteria Tuesday 6 p.m. Live music entertainment for that event will be provided by Donald Budmen, Alex Stier and Ricky Ruiz.

Tickets may be obtained by contacting the high school or middle-school offices or student planners Patty Terranova, Arlene Carroll or Jane Baumgartner after school. Jane Baumgartner and Mike Fairweather are in charge of arrangements. All proceeds will benfit the prom fund.

Junior Class officers are Patty Terranova, president; Linda Ruiz, vice president; Arlene Caroll, secretary and Joe Williams, treasurer.

AT THE PLAZA — Garrett Parks (L) is only nineteen, but already he has started on his life's work. When the Broadway show "Plaza Suite" comes to Kingston, Garry will be the stage manager. He's making his theatrical debut as the son of Larry Parks and Betty Garrett — a top inheritance for a theatrical tradition. The comedy hit, by Neil Simon, is nearing the end of its tour of 40 states playing 90 cities from coast-to-coast. Garrett started with the usual butterflies in his stomach but by now he is a veteran stage manager. He keeps track of the actors, calls "half hour" and knows where the understudies are all the time — just in case. He's on duty at the stage manager's desk backstage during the running of all performances and he's around all during the time when the show is being set up on each new stage. It's an exciting life for a young person, but Garrett is level headed and has won his place in the world of show business. Plaza Suite will play the Community Theater for one performance only, 8:30 p. m. Monday, April 12.

On Selecting a Pet

By LFI

One of the biggest problems of finding a pet is that all-too-often, the pet finds you, instead. You may visualize yourself stalking the woods with an Irish wolfhound, and then your sister returns from a visit to the dog pound with a pound-and-a-half of white fluff which she has named Tootums, and which she assumes you will care for while she is at college. Or you may imagine a lively squirrel monkey riding trustingly on your shoulder until the day somebody leaves a mottled grey kitten with mange in your mailbox. Or perhaps you have no intentions of becoming a pet person at all, and then one day you find a lamed squirrel dragging its way over to the bird feeder . . .

After your pet has chosen you, make the best of it, and soon you'll be wondering how you have ever considered any other type of animal. However, if you have the good fortune to not be chosen by a pet, you might want to pick one yourself.

More and more teens are finding that the world seems a lot less chill, thoughtless, demanding, and empty when they have something depending on them. Something that loves them, obeys them, and accepts them without question. Parents, who used to develop an automatic headshaking tic at the sound of the word "pet," are finding that the advantages can outweigh the hair on the sofa, or the strange sounds out of the darkness just before dawn. There's nothing to improve a sense of responsibility like a pet that needs to be given food and water daily, and "authority" takes on a whole new meaning when trying to housebreak a puppy.

If you have the good fortune to be able to choose your pet, try to choose the right one — not only will you be happier, but so will the animal. Among considerations are cost, available time and room, and your own personality.

Perhaps you've had it with dogs and cats, and you'd like a pet that you won't meet around every corner—something that will arouse admiration in your friends, jealousy in your enemies, and apoplexy in your parents. Generally speaking, the "exotic" pet costs more and may be more difficult to maintain than the usual cat or dog, but it will also be more interesting.

Before you try to obtain an animal, find a book (for instance, at a library or pet shop) and learn in detail what you'll be letting yourself in for. Snakes require live food, and are almost impossible to walk on a leash. Monkey and rabbits can be dangerously mischievous, and Llamas are difficult to housetrain. A word of caution—before you attempt to adopt a native wild animal for a pet, check the local and state laws. Often, before you can keep a skunk, fox, raccoon, opossum, or woodchuck for a pet, you will need a state license, and many cities have ordinances preventing you from keeping these pets inside of city limits. Some wild pets may present health problems, since they may react badly to standard anti-rabies-and-distemper vaccines.

If space is a problem, or you need something you can hide from a landlord, dorm director, or roommate who is squirrelly about squirrels, you might want to consider fish, turtles, or lizards for pets. A goldfish in a glass globe may not be as much fun as a barrelful of monkeys, but it costs under a dollar, and, with proper care, it may live to be admired by your children. A fish or turtle tank can bring ecology right to windowsill, and provide a chance to study the balance of nature in miniature. Warning: don't test the effects of detergents on your guppies.

If reptiles seem a little too cold-blooded, and you don't feel up to importing eucalyptus leaves for a koala bear, you might consider a rodent. You might also consider telling your parents to sit down before you tell them about your decision. Guinea pigs and white rats are large enough so you can't lose them too easily, but mice, hamsters, and gerbils, while tiny, make surprisingly satisfying pets. They can be taught to do tricks, are affectionate, and need only small cages. There are also many small birds besides the usual parakeets, canaries, and mynah birds. Miniature parrots are unbelievably long-lived, and tame finches, while delicate, are colorful, intelligent, and unusual.

. . . Or over at the pound, there are scads of puppies and kittens — one for almost every location and personality. Of course . . . you're tired of dogs and cats, aren't you. Until you walk into the pound, and see all those pleading eyes riveted on you hopefully. That, in fact, is the problem. There's a big danger that your pet will pick you. You started out looking for a black kitten, but you were chosen by an asthmatic, arthritic beagle who wouldn't look away . . .

Honors at Onteora

BOICEVILLE

The Onteora Chapter of the National Honor Society inducted 33 students into its organization recently.

Miss Jenny Buton, president of the Onteora Chapter, presided over the program. John E. Stefano, high school principal, welcomed the parents and guests to the evening ceremony.

Dr. Frank M. Marlow, superintendent of schools at Onteora, gave the principal address to the students and adults attending. Dr. Marlow indicated that the students selected to the Honor Society were a credit to their parents and community. The skills and personal characteristics of each inductee, as well as those students who held membership should provide the adult population with a strong sense of security for the future. Dr. Marlow then elaborated on the criteria for selection — Service, Leadership, Scholarship and Character.

The students inducted were:

Seniors, Janice Bilsback, Lisa Carle, Joseph Emashowski, and Linda Shultis.

Honorary membership in the National Honor Society was extended to two seniors—Eva Arza, Onteora's American Field Service Exchange Student from Paraguay and Judy Hevesi, who was selected as Senior of the Year. Miss Hevesi is the eleventh senior so chosen and her name will be added to a plaque with the names of the previous winners.

Following the induction ceremony refreshments were provided the new members and their parents. The entire ceremony was planned and organized by the following members of the local chapter: William Bradley, Jenny Buton (president), Devon Conover, William Cook, Linda Crosby, Lorraine Davis, JoAnn Every, Nancy Hollyday, Vlad Hoyt, Kent Knickmeyer, Eve Moscowitz, Diane Reffelt, Donna Schmidt, Marie Snyder, Terry Tougas, Mary Ann Viskocil, Bill Weidman, Lauren Williams and David Zimet.

William Wakefield and Henry Berleth are the faculty advisors to the Onteora Chapter of the National Honor Society.

Explorers Appeal For Girl Members

KINGSTON

After two years of research and field experience, the Exploring Division of the Boy Scouts of America will now admit teenage girls to full membership in Exploring, its high school-age action program.

The announcement was made here today by Charles Carr, Scout Executive, after word was received that approval has been given by the national executive board of the Boy Scouts of America and will be effective April 1.

Carr said that the action taken nationally was in recognition of the chartered requirement to serve boys and young men, and it would enable Exploring to more effectively carry out its mandate to meet the needs and interests of today's youth.

Until January 1970, Exploring had been an all-male program. Acting on research studies and recommendations of business, education, religious and youth leaders, Exploring began a one-year trial of admitting young women to participate in the program. Participation was restricted to special-interest Explorer posts organized around a career or vocation interest.

The national Executive Board's action now makes it possible for coeds to become full-fledged members and for adult women volunteers to act in leadership capacities.

During the last year there have been eight Explorer posts in this area with five having girls as participants. The posts specialize in such interests as Aviation, Electronics, Communications and Medicine.

Membership in a post or Sea Explorer ship would be entirely at the discretion of the sponsoring organization, Carr explained.

Age requirements for girls are the same as male members. Members may enroll upon reaching 15 years of age and may remain through their 20th year.

Lang-Seyfarth Engagement

SUSAN CAROL LANG

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lang of 27 Dunneman Avenue, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Carol, to Peter F. Seyfarth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Seyfarth of Hurley.

Mrs. Lang is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1969, and is a sophomore at Concordia College, at Bronxville.

Her fiance is a graduate of Islip High School, class of 1968, and is attending Ulster County Community where he will complete his studies in June.

Both Miss Lang and her fiance plan to continue their education at Concordia Teachers College in Seward, Nebraska in September.

A June 1972 wedding is planned.

Karen Sjursen Is Bride-Elect

KAREN P. SJURSEN

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Sjursen of 62 Lighthouse Drive, Saugerties, announce the engagement of their daughter, Karen Paulette, to Glen Howard Thorne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Thorne, Malden-on-Hudson.

Miss Sjursen is a student at Saugerties High School. Her fiance attended Saugerties High School and is employed at S. Berzal Mushroom Plant Inc. in Malden-on-Hudson.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Kathleen Janes Weds O. A. Iannantuoni

MRS. OTTERINO A. IANNANTUONI
(Photo Workshop)

St. Joseph's Church in Kingston was the setting for the wedding of Miss Kathleen Mary Janes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Lansing Janes of 9 Circle Drive in Hurley, and Otterino Anthony Iannantuoni, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Iannantuoni of Killington, Vt. and Foggia, Italy, on Saturday, Mar. 13.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. Reilly officiated at the double ring ceremony. James Murphy, organist, accompanied Richard Scherer who sang traditional wedding selections. Six gold vases of white gladioli, white stock and white chrysanthemums decorated the altar and baskets of white gladioli, white chrysanthemums and white pompons were placed on each side of the altar railing. Pews were marked with satin bows and flower arrangements of white chrysanthemums marked the family pews. The bride placed a long stemmed white rose at the altar of the Blessed Mother.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of dulcette satin fashioned with a high neckline and long full sleeves. The bodice, sleeves and A-line skirt featured appliques of three dimensional Venice lace motifs. The chapel length train was bordered with matching lace. She wore a stylized headpiece to which was shirred the silk illusion veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of anemones, stephanotis, baby's breath, roses and daisies, attached to her maternal grandmother's prayerbook.

Miss Debra Jaeger of Columbus, Ohio was maid of honor in a floor length gown of coral peau de soie, styled with a soft V-neckline, self-ruffled. The gown featured a high wasistline and an A-line skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of coral daisies and baby's breath.

Miss Sheilah M. Barnes of Kingston served as bridesmaid. Her American Beauty gown was styled identically to that of the honor attendant's.

Anthony Turzo of Brooklyn was best man. Ushers were Charles L. Janes of Hanover, N. H., brother of the bride; Thomas M. Janes, cousin of the bride, Troy.

A reception for 130 guests was given at Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston.

For her wedding trip to Europe, the bride selected a maxi ensemble styled with a fine ribbed knit bodice with embroidered trim and a long quilted skirt made of matching embroidery.

She wore a fingertip length black wool cape and black accessories.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High school and University of Connecticut where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, flew TWA internationally prior to her marriage.

Her husband, an alumnus of Yonkers High School and University of Heidelberg, was an interpreter in U.S. Army. He is proprietor of Steak 'n Things, Killington, Vt.

The couple will reside at Killington, Vt.

Historical Drama at OCCC Thursday

"The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail," an historical yet contemporary drama from the American Playwrights Theater, will be staged at Orange County Community College, Middletown, on Thursday evening, Apr. 1, by a touring student troupe from the State University at Fredonia.

The OCCC Lyceum Series and the college's speech and theater department are sponsoring the guest performance by the Fredonia Mummers at 8:30 p.m. in the Orange Hall theater.

Much of the popularity of "The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail" is attributed to its timeliness. The new play, already presented at nearly 100 community, resident and college theaters, deals with Thoreau's refusal to pay his taxes because he felt the money would go to support the war with Mexico.

Steve Cooper, a Fredonia freshman, plays the role of Thoreau who learns from his night in jail of the limitless possibilities for man and what he can do with his life. Cooper has earned outstanding reviews for his portrayal.

Bryan Leys plays Ralph Waldo Emerson who preaches and writes what Thoreau puts into real terms.

Gerry Coptsias is John Thoreau, whose death tests his brother Henry's ideology. In life, the brothers start a school in Walden pond after Henry is dismissed from the conformity-ridden school of the community.

At Walden they meet Ellen Sewell played by Lambriny Hedge. A sister to one of Thoreau's students, her naivete provides another impetus for Henry's teachings. Robert Neve, as Deacon Ball, the headmaster of the Concord school, is unimpressed with a variance in the curriculm.

Thoreau's cell-mate Bailey, who learns to write his name, is played by Thomas Baydala. Cris Smith is Henry's mother and Lois Kieser plays Lydian Emerson. Young David Penharlow wins hearts as Emerson's son and David Finch adds another social undertsone with his portrayal of a runaway slave.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
(© 1971, Emily Post Institute, Inc.)

Introductions and the responses to them are frequently the source of real social hang-ups. Otherwise-poised people have been known to panic at the thought of having to introduce their best friend to a stranger, that they have forgotten the freind's name. If you learn a few basic rules, and practice a few simple phrases so they come naturally to you, you will learn to handle introductions naturally and gracefully. This quiz will help you.

Q. When two women (or men) of the same age are introduced, which name is said first?

It really makes no difference. However, if you know one of the two better than the other, you usually introduce the stranger to the one you know best: "Anne, I'd like you to meet our new neighbor, Jean Fennimore." Then, truning to Mrs. Fennimore, "This is Anne Bond, my oldest friend."

Q. When an elderly gentleman and young girl meet, who is introduced to whom?

The girl is introduced to the man in this case.

PAYING SOMEONE TO TURN ON THE FAUCET

Plain, ordinary water is getting expensive. It's costing us more and more at the supermarket, and we are paying for the privilege of carrying it home, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

"The soup manufacturers are the latest to go in to the water business in a big way. By adding water at the plant, they are finding that the gullible American public will pay three times as much for virtually the same product," says U.S. Consumer.

The latest product on the supermarket shelves is a soup that needs no water added before serving. The label states: please do not add water — please serve it just as we cooked it, thick and rich — DO NOT DILUTE — makes two hearty servings.

The product is advertised as an "honest old-fashioned soup." Actually it's an honest, old-fashioned way to get the public to pay two or three times the single serving price of competing condensed soups

U.S Consumer conducted a survey in Giant and Safeway Supermarkets in Washington, D. C. The results show how much more buyers pay per serving for the "full-bodied," diluted-at-the-plant soup

Soups with water added cost about 12.5 cents per serving, but condensed soups cost about 42 cents per serving. That's a difference of 8.3 cents. No attempt was made by the survey to compare quality, which may vary as much as the price.

Soups aren't the only product for which we pay to have water added. Puddings and whipped toppings come ready to eat. Fruit drinks often contain only 6 percent actual fruit the rest is mostly water. Think of all the money you've spent on bottled drinks and the energy consumed lugging all those bottles of "water" home.

Convenience can't be ruled out. Sometimes convenience foods come in handy when we're in a hurry or unable to make the product ourselves. Products such as ready-to-eat puddings and toppings save cooking and cleaning equipment.

But . . . soups and soft drinks? A can of soup still needs to be opened and the contents heated in a pan. How much work is it to add water?

The next time you feel the cost of living eating your money away, stop and think. Is it worth the extra cost to have someone else turn on the faucet?

Tiny Tips

Add Catchup

Next time you add crumbled crisply cooked bacon to peanut butter for a sandwich filling, mix in a little catchup or chili sauce.

Liver Strips

Cut sliced liver into narrow strips; dip in slightly beaten egg and then in bread crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat and serve at once. Mashed potatoes taste good with this dish.

Red Hook Plans Dog Ordinance

RED HOOK — Town Supervisor Warren Simmons today released a statement dealing with plans for a town dog ordinance, and asking the cooperation of all residents.

The Town Board has been debating for some time the path to take in dealing with the rising tide of the dog population and attendant problems. The matter has been brought to a head by the financial troubles of the Dutchess County SPCA, and its impending closing.

"As a result of many calls by residents on dogs causing problems with children, nuisance of tipping over garbage cans, damaging shrubs, etc., the Town Board is developing an ordinance for the control of dogs," he said.

The SPCA held a special meeting last Friday through the intervention of County Executive David Schoentag, where it told the reasons why it had decided not to accept dogs after July 1.

The question of operation expense was brought before the towns represented at that meeting, and it became "quite evident that more money was needed by the shelter in order to be able to provide any relief to the towns," said the release.

Simmons further pointed out, "It also became quite evident that regardless of money, their capacity would not permit a guarantee that all unwanted dogs could be accepted at the shelter."

He said his derivation from the many suggestions made was that all would be costly and "will be directed back to the towns in forms of taxes."

"I am sure we do not need this, but if everyone does his part in helping control the situation, this possibly can be eliminated," said Simmons.

Further meetings will be held in the near future to discuss progress.

Fighting in Mideast

By United Press International

New clashes were reported today in the Jordanian city of Irbid in some of the heaviest fighting between King Hussein's troops and Arab guerrillas since the civil war last fall.

"Shooting is still going on inside Irbid and in the area," a military spokesman said.

Hussein's forces sealed off all roads into Irbid, Jordan's second largest city and met motorists with the warning, "Even King Hussein cannot pass here."

Fighting raged through Irbid, 45 miles north of Amman, most of Friday. A Jordanian government statement said three security men were killed and one was wounded. Guerrilla spokesmen said at least four civilians were killed and 15 wounded.

The government said the fighting followed discovery by security men of weapons hidden in a cemetery in violation of agreements between the Palestinian commandoes and the government. The statement said the commandoes then attacked police stations in the area.

Diplomatic sources in Amman suggested the sealing off of Irbid was because of house-to-house searches for weapons.

Reliable commando sources said there were more than 4,000 armed Arab guerrillas in the area.

Military sources said the surrounding of Irbid and military operation there Friday was the most extensive use of troops in Jordan since the civil war.

LENTEN SERIES — The Rev. Michael Gilleece of St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, is conducting a Lenten Lecture Series at St. Mary's Hall, Ellenville. The lectures which deal with current moral problems will concude Tuesday, March 30, at 8 p.m. Members of all faiths are invited to attend.

Thruway Order to Prohibit Hauling of Three Trailers

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The hauling of three trailers by a single tractor will no longer be permitted on the New York State Thruway, according to an order effective today from the chairman of the state thruway authority.

R. Burdell Bixby, noting tests had been permitted over a 3½ year period, said that the idea had failed to prove of economic advantage to either the truckers or consumers.

He said, however, that there had been no problem from a safety standpoint.

Bixby noted that the authority had permitted the "triple tandum" operation in tests since Oct. 1967. This, he said, was done to let trucking firms determine whether such trip operations would reduce costs of Thruway shipments and permit savings by hauling smaller trailers directly into communities.

Tractors hauling two trailers frequently had to load or unload at a Thruway interchange, he said.

During the test period, he said that seven operators requested permission to participate, but only five actually participated. The number of participants dropped to two in 1970, he said.

"Now 3½ years after authorization it is clear to us that the trucking industry has not demonstrated sufficient interests to indicate the promise of reduced costs of shipments or deliveries either to themselves or the consumer," he said.

Continuation, he said, "might well be a disservice to many Thruway patrons operating passenger cars, many of whom have written to the Authority requesting that the tests be discontinued."

He said, however, that the test program demonstrated that the triple units, comprising three short trailers and a tractor, could be operated successfully and safely by firms having proper equipment, trained personnel and superior maintenance.

He said there was only one accident during 1970 when 995 trips were made over 668,000 miles. The accident, he said, did not involve injuries or other vehicles.

North Dutchess Resumes Its Expanded Plan

RHINEBECK — Northern Dutchess Hospital will resume expanded emergency room coverage Monday, Michael C. Mazzarella, hospital administrator announced today.

Dr. Valeriano Gapas, presently covering the emergency room on a limited basis, will be joined by Dr. Amal Das, currently finishing his internship at Vassar Hospital.

When expanded coverage resumes, service will be available from 8 a.m. to midnight Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. Saturday to midnight Sunday.

The hospital was forced to cutback on its coverage two months ago when it was short of the necessary medical staff.

Progress Word On Task Forces

KINGSTON — Progress reports on the activities of the Total Community Development Program's four task forces were outlined at Thursday's meeting of Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce committees held at Holiday Inn.

Howard Rust, chairman reported on the Environment Task Force and said the group's next recycling project will be held on Saturday, April 3. A schedule will be announced.

Lee Eric Yaple and Jon Lindberg, co-chairmen of the Drug Task Force noted they are working on the store-front facility and county acceptance of the methadone treatment for addicts. They also advised that more adult participation on the committee is needed.

Len Cane, executive vice president of the Chamber reported for George Hutton on the progress of the Housing Task Force. He noted they are working on zoning and city planning studies.

Everette Hodge reported for the Education Task Force noting they are studying the proposal of a 12-months school year.

Workshops Start At Paltz College On Saturday

NEW PALTZ — Three Saturday workshops for interested area residents will be presented at State University College, New Paltz by the Mid-Hudson school study Council. The dates are today, April 24 and May 22.

The workshops will deal primarily with new teaching techniques in reading, madia presentation in the classroom, and the reading and writing of poetry.

Today's workshop will be conducted by Ron Padgett. The May 22 workshop will be and have "How to Get Your students Writing and Reading Poetry" as its theme.

The April 24 workshop will have "Reading in the Secondary School" as its theme, and Dr. John S. Simmons will conduct it.

conducted by Dr. Liane Brandon, and have "New Media in the English Classroom" as its theme.

All workshops begin at the college Lecture Center at 9:30 a.m. The afternoon sessions begin at 12:30 p.m.

Loftus Named To Zoning Post In Rhinebeck

RHINEBECK — The initiation of the Town of Rhinebeck's new zoning law has necessitated the immediate appointment of a zoning enforcement officer, and the Town Board this week named James Loftus of Rhinecliff to that post.

While the town and village, which is holding its final zoning hearing Tuesday and will probably adopt it at that time, have agreed in principal to sharing the enforcement officer, town officials appointed Loftus to the position at the part-time salary of $1,500 to take care of immediate problems.

According to Supervisor William Allen, the village is not obligated to appoint Loftus.

The verbal deal made between the two municipalities was to have the $2,500 post split with the town kicking in $1,500 and the village $1,000, since most new building would be under the town's jurisdiction.

The Town Board also appointed John Griffin of Route 308 to a five-year term on the Planning Board.

Plans Board Gives Report For Shandaken

TOWN OF SHANDAKEN — A four-year, self-examining progress report issued by the Town of Shandaken Planning Board revealed "few concrete accomplishments and many recommendations which have received no action by the Town Board."

The report was submitted to the Town Board at its February meeting.

Several items recommended by the Planning Board to the Town Board have resulted in "no action," the report states.

Among the items recommended by the Planning Board that have not been acted upon by the Town Board are that the town adopt the New York State Building Code as minimum standards; adoption of a garbage and rubbish disposal law and adoption of model subdivision regulations to control large developments.

Because of the "immediacy of many of the problems facing Shandaken as a community, the Planning Board will poll the taxpayers by mid-summer with a comprehensive questionnaire to determine the proposals which appear most urgent and valuable," according to Chairman Frederick Muehleck.

Formed in 1967, the Planning Board meets on the last Wednesday of every month at the Shandaken Town Hall. Meetings begin at 8 p.m.

Dear Abby

Too Much 'Granny' Talk

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a mother-in-law problem, but not the usual kind. She is not meddlesome, gossipy or anything like that. She is practically perfect — or she was, until 18 months ago when her daughter (my wife) made a grandmother of her. Now, I realize that all grandmothers think their grandchildren are the cutest, smartest, prettiest, etc., but my mother-in-law has overdone it until I want to gag.

She carries dozens of pictures with her and shoves them under everybody's nose whether he is interested or not. And, no one has a chance to talk about anything else when she's around. It is positively nauseating. She bores everyone to tears with her "granny" talk. I have sat in a group wanting to crawl under the carpet when she takes off about "my" grandchild. The worst part of it is, she doesn't realize how sickening it is to others.

How can I let this otherwise dear, sweet woman know that everyone is not as eager to listen to her "granny" talk as she is to spout it?

EMBARRASSED IN ATLANTA

DEAR EMBARRASSED: What's wrong with telling her?

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend has been after me to prove my love. I tried to tell him what you said in an article about this, but it didn't come out right. If you can remember what you said, I would very much appreciate seeing it in your column. I am 15. Sign me . . .

"WEAKENING"

DEAR WEAKENING: Here it is: Girls need to "prove their love" thru illicit sex relations like a moose needs a hatrack. Why not prove your love" by sticking your head in the oven and turning on the gas? Or playing leap-frog out in traffic? It's about as safe. Any fellow who asks you to "prove your love" is trying to take you for the biggest, most gullible fool who ever walked. That proving bit is one of the oldest and rottenest lines ever invented!

Does he love you? It doesn't sound like it. Someone who loves you wants what is best for you. But now figure it out: He wants you to surrender your virtue. Throw away your self-respect. Risk the loss of your precious reputation. And risk getting into trouble and hurting yourself and hurting your family.

Does that sound as tho he wants what's best for you? That's the laugh of the century: He wants what's best for him . . and he wants a thrill he can brag about at your expense.

Love? Who's kidding whom? A boy who really loves a girl would sooner cut off his right arm than hurt her. If you want my opinion, this self-serving so and-so has already proved that he doesn't love you. (P.S. It wasn't an "article," it was from my book, "Dear Teenager.")

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him Mel) is an excellent dancer. Recently while we were attending a dinner-dance, an acquaintance, sitting at another table, sent a note over to Mel requesting that he dance with his wife. Mel danced with her.

Later on, another man came over and told Mel that his wife was "dying" to dance with him. So Mel danced with her.

The men who asked my husband to dance with their wives did not ask me to dance, so while Mel was dancing I was left sitting alone at our table. Do you care to comment?

CRUSHED WALLFLOWER

DEAR CRUSHED: The men who recruited your husband for their wives should have had the good manners to ask you to dance. But since they didn't, your husband should have suggested it. A gentleman does not leave his lady sitting alone while he dances.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069 For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

(Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 9:25 a.m. WKNY—1490).

Quick Quiz

Q—Is it true that oak trees should be shunned in a thunderstorm

A—Yes, statistics show that the oak is struck by lightning much more frequently than any other tree.

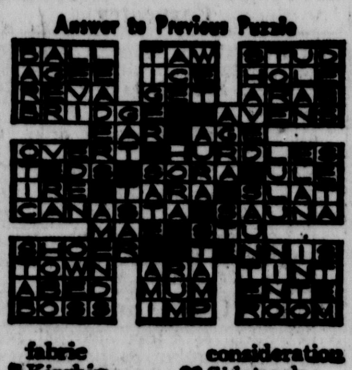
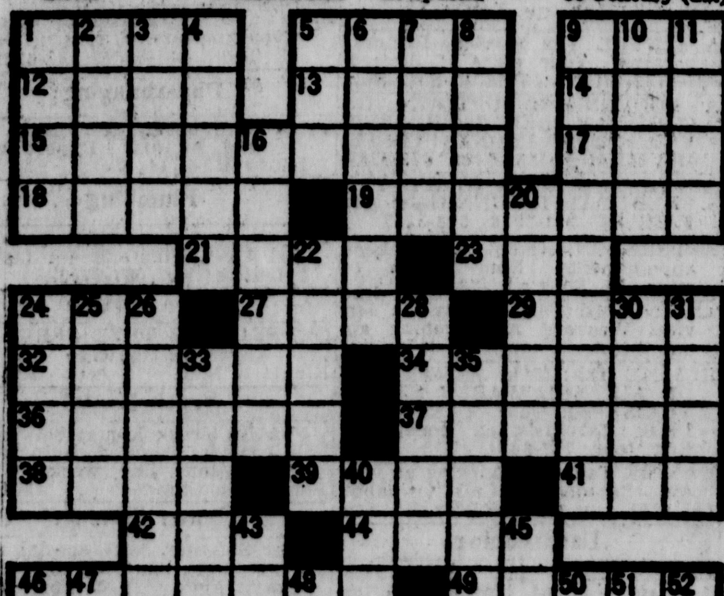
Answer to Previous Puzzle





(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

Sunday, March 28

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Now you have fine aspects to get those many ideas of the past two days reduced to a working success, especially since it is Sunday and you have the time to plan just how you are going to do them in minute detail. Add some art, color or culture to your surroundings so they will be more attractive.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr. 19) Financial matters should be first on the agenda now, so figure out your assets and liabilities and see how to eliminate expenses that are not necessary. If you have doubts about something, discuss with expert. Take it easy tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are full of energy today and can enjoy recreation with friends or allies. Do something that will please those you love. Show generosity.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Discussing quietly with an expert how to handle some personal matter that is vital will bring the right solution now. Take those treatments that improve your health. Steer clear of arguments.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Showing generosity to a good pal who can help you attain some personal wish is fine now. Social activities can prove most pleasant and produce fine results. Think constructively.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are able to handle all those public and business duties well now and can gain the approval of everyone. You are highly magnetic and can charm all. Avoid those who do not really appreciate you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Listening to what a wise person has to say will help you live on a higher level of consciousness in the future. Prepare for the trip you want to take soon. Avoid gossips and use time constructively.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you have any doubts about how to handle certain responsibilities today, discuss them with experts first. Then tackle them with vim and vigor. Build up harmony with mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try to coordinate your energies with those of others so that friction will bediminished, especially on the policy level. Get busy on those public matters you want to handle. Show that you have ability.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get that work done and don't expect others to carry the brunt of the load. Coordinate ideas and then work together in a harmonious fashion. Being willing to really work gets right results.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20.(Once you have attended services, join those you really enjoy and admire in social activities or for other entertainments. Get rid of pent-up emotions, tensions. Go to bed early tonight for a fresh start in the morning.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Stop trying to change things around at home and be more willing to do what is expected of you there. Following the lead of others is best right now, since the planets are on their side. Do some reading tonight that is worthwhile.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A good day to express yourself with others, whether verbally or through letters and you will achieve excellent results. Being sure to keep appointments you make is important. Don't disappoint others or you get in dutch.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those practical young people who wants to feel secure early, so give the best kind of education, including moral and ethical training. This will permit your child to attain the desired security while young. However, teach not to be so concerned with money that almost nothing else is important.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Monday, March 29

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are tied down to all sorts and kinds of exacting duties of a down-to-earth nature, and although you feel you want to run away from them, they would only be waiting for you with accumulated interest and more dust when you return. Show your conscientious qualities and get chores behind you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You want to add to present income but seem to be checkmated at every instance. This is only temporary and soon contacts bring fine results. Stay calm. Listen to suggestions of older individuals.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you improve your appearance, you can easily have right results when dealing with other persons who are important to your scheme of things. Enjoy interesting recreation later in the day. Show that you have poise and savoir faire.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can plan the future very well with the aid of experts and bigwigs you know. Show that you have a good practical head on your shoulders. Evening is romantic.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Showing that you know what people really want that will please them and doing something about gaining it for them is wise now. Show tact while out socially. Don't splurge like a millionaire, if you aren't one.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have vocational duties that require exactness in the performing, so be tactful in dealing with everyone. Be efficient. Make payments on time and improve your credit. Don't waste time with those you do not understand and vice versa.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have some new plan for expansion but it needs more study to make it really workable. Listen to those whose experience has been different from your own. Enjoy the company of good friends in p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you think you have too much to do, by scheduling your time and energies you accomplish a great deal instead of just worrying about it. Try to please mate instead of yourself exclusively. Be with friends tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) An associate you do not care about much can have interesting ideas, however, and can bring more success into your life later on. Being demanding with others could prove a big mistake. Show tact.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Although the work ahead of you may be somewhat boring, do it painstakingly and all is fine. Get it behind you and forget about it. Avoid that associate in business who wants to tie you down to something you care little about.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Indulging in amusements that have long been found satisfactory is fine today, but the untried could be very disappointing. Mate may have different ideas, but tone down tactfully. Pay that bill without fail.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have to use heart to straighten out those affairs at home which have come to a pretty pass. Being more willing to please kin is very important. You are strong-willed, but so are they, so give in a little.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Gaining goodwill of others is only a matter of listening carefully to what they say. Suggestions they give could be quite good. Study affairs with care so that you can eradicate any errors in them.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those young people who seem to have nothing but a negative attitude toward life, so teach early to smile and to feel that life is pretty much a gamble, and you will set free the ability for success in this interesting life. While young give duties to perform of a practical nature. Business is best here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Name-Dropping Across Dial

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Notes to watch television by:

The headliners: Diana Ross, formerly of the Supremes, has a variety special on ABC-TV April 18, with Bill Cosby and Danny Thomas as guests ... Merv Griffin's late-night series has been renewed for next season by CBS-TV ... world-famous violinist Jascha Heifetz is the subject of an hour NBC-TV special April 23 ... David Niven narrates the same network's documentary about Scotland Yard next Tuesday.

When host Allen Ludden's "Password" series returns on ABC-TV April 5 as a daily afternoon entry, the premiere week celebrity contestants will be Elizabeth Mongomery of "Bewitched" and Bill Bixby of "The Courtship of "Eddie's Father" ... the piano-playing appearance of Sen. Edward Kennedy's wife, Joan, on NBC-TV's Andy Williams Show will finally be broadcast tonight after a two-week postponement.

Peggy Lee and Erroll Garner are guests on Pearl Bailey's ABC-TV show April 10 ... "Royal Gala," an hour all-star charity show filmed in London at a benefit for the World Wildlife Fund, airs on NBC-TV April 7, with Rex Harrison as host, the British and Dutch Crown families in attendance and the performers including Bob Hope, Petula Clark, Tom Jones, Rudolf Nureyev, George Kirby and Engelbert Humperdinck.

Why did Glen Campbell make it back on next season's CBS-TV schedule when all the other rural shows were canceled? ...An insider explains: "His image has changed ever-so-gradually during the past two-and-a-half years. He's more urbane, both in talk and in Dress. But it was done so tactfully that he hasn't lost his old audience while gaining a new one."

Albert Speer, who headed all armaments production in Hitler Germany and spent 21 years in prison for war crimes, is a guest on NBC-TV's "Comment!" series Sunday ... next season's Ed Sullivan specials for CBS-TV, which canceled his weekly show, will be built around these — for example, a puppet program, or a tribute to an entertainment world personality.

Julie Andrews and Carol Burnett, who teamed up for an overrated special some years back, will do another two-woman show for CBS-TV in the coming season ... Same network also promises it will present, in the 1971-72 semester, Leonard Bernstein's Vienna-filmed special marking the bicentennial of Beethoven's birth—a program that couldn't find a sponsor around the time of the celebrating of the event last December.

The programs: Two popular CBS-TV soap operas, "As the World Turns" and "The Edge of Night," mark their 15th anniversaries April 2 ... An hour study of the welfare problem—"The Aanatomy of Welfare"—airs on ABC-TV April 14 ... A progress report on the ecology movement, "What Happened To Earth Day," is set for CBS-TV April 6...NBC-TV estimates that a total of about 60 million viewers will have watched Thursdays and Saturday's semifinal and final playoffs of the NCAA Basketball Tourney, involving UCLA, Kansas, Western Kentucky and Villanova.

A children's version of the famous old television series, "You Are There," which offered "eyewitness re-enactments of historic events, will be a weekly, half-hour, Saturday daytime series on CBS-TV next season ... "Venice Be Damned!", an hour special about the Italian city that houses so many art treasures—and how it is being destroyed by polluted air, rising water, sinking foundations and refuse-clogged canals—will be broadcast on NBC-TV May 21, with Jose Ferrer as narrator.

North's three-club call was Stayman to ask South to bid a four-card major if he held one. South showed his four hearts and North bid six.

West opened the three of diamonds and the Student playing the hand finally played dummy's 10. A diamond came back and the Student was in dummy.

He turned to the Professor, who was kibitzing, and said, "I have been studying suit combinations in the encyclopedia of bridge but they seem to have missed this one."

The Student huddled for some time and then reached for dummy's three of trumps. East played the four and the Student's jack held. He returned to dummy with a club and went into further study. Finally he played the 10 of trumps and it was all over but writing down the score. If East covered South would return to dummy for a finesse against the nine. If East ducked, South would let the 10 ride and repeat the finesse.

"Beautifully done!" exclaimed the Professor.

The Student had played the trumps the only correct way. The first round he led low so that if East held the singleton king it would drop. The 10 spot lead the first time would set up the nine. If West held four trumps headed by it. The second round was different. West couldn't hold four trumps to the nine but East might have started with just what he did hold and the 10 spot lead was essential.

Youth Commission: A Step in the Right Direction

YOUTH IN GOVERNMENT DAY — The second Youth in Government Day was held at City Hall Wednesday with the teenagers from DeMolay taking over all city offices and electing a Common Council and mayor. It worked out rather well with a lively session of the Council resulting in some solid suggestions toward solving city problems.

We think it's a good idea to get the kids up to city hall now and then (certainly more than once a year) to get a firsthand look at city government in operation.

But, we think Mayor Koenig's idea of a youth commission, set forth in his January, 1970 Mayor's Message and as yet unimplemented, is an even better one.

To quote the mayor: "During the recent mayoralty campaign I expressed my intention of trying to involve the youth of our city actively in some way in contributing to the welfare and betterment of the city of Kingston. Within the next several months I will appoint a youth commission so that we may take full advantage of the ideas, thoughts and ideals of our young people.

"We want and need their help. They will soon be the homeowners and the taxpayers of our community. They will have to face many of the type of difficult, vexing problems that presently perplex us."

As yet, the youth commission has not been formed, which is not to say the mayor hasn't been working on it. He had two or three meetings last year with some teenagers and their teachers at the high school, but to date, nothing formal has come of it.

We think a youth commission, as outlined by the mayor, would be just the ticket for ongoing communication between the city government and young people.

Recreation, of course comes immediately to mind, as something that touches directly on our young people, but what about the drug problem. Police raids on drug pushers, though all too infrequent, always seem to come up with a goodly catch. And the victims, for the most part, are city youngsters. They might have some good ideas on how to cut down on that drug trafficking.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Freeman City Hall Reporter

Air and water pollution seems to be another subject of particular interest to young people. Their suggestions might prove valuable to the Common Council's Air Pollution Committee.

We think Koenig put it best in his mayor's message last year: "Let us give these earnest capable young people a real chance to render such a tremendous service not only to the city but actually also to themselves."

* * * *

THE "INFORMED SOURCE" is probably one of the few things that newsmen and politicians have in common.

On one hand, it allows the politician to get a story out without being tied to it and of course, it allows the newsman to get the story in print.

The story on the jetport at Newburgh, which has been in and out of The Freeman for the past week, is a classic example of the informed source method, its motives and its results.

It broke on Monday with "sources" in the governor's office reporting that Rockefeller would ask the legislature for money to convert Stewart Field in Newburgh into a major jetport.

The vehicle was the prestigious New York Times, and Page One of The Times at that. To some people, a story on Page One of the Times is akin to the word of God. It just has to be true. Even H. Clark Bell, our assemblyman, must think so.

Bell, in a letter to Rockefeller, dated March 25 (three days after the Times story) wrote: "On Monday, March 22, the New York Times carried on the front page a proposal calling for the establishment of a fourth jetport in Newburgh, New York at Stewart Air Force Base. The Times article described this as a proposal to be submitted to the legislature by your office."

So much for the method, which usually works on the state and federal level. Around here, "informed sources" stories don't really work too well. For one thing, it's a smaller (government) operation and for another everyone knows everyone. Imagine an "informed source" from the mayor's office. The mayor is the ONLY source in the mayor's office.

The motive should be obvious by now: a gauging of the wind without getting blasted by it. In short, a trial balloon.

The jetport balloon was hardly off the ground before Newburgh State Senator Richard Schermerhorn took a shot at it. Our senator, Jay P. Rolison Jr., joined in shortly after, in opposition, while Bell withheld comment awaiting official word from Rockefeller. In effect, Bell was refusing to rise to the bait.

We don't think the Rock is too worried about it, though. were not at all happy about Rockefeller's method of getting the jetport story out. i.e., the informed source method.

We don't think the Rock is too worried about it, though. It looks like he got what he wanted; free public opinion survey. And from what we hear, chances are very good for a jetport at Newburgh, according to informed sources.

BIG JOHN—John Brady, head custodian at city hall, is back home after 18 days in Kingston Hospital after undergoing surgery.

Brady, of course, had loads of visitors during his stay in the hospital but he's most happy about a personal letter from Judge Hubie Richter. The judge also spent some time with Brady. We're all looking forward to John's return.

WATER CONTRACT SIGNING—Anthony Alecca (L), president of Teamsters Local 445, bargaining agent for the Kingston Water Department, signs an agreement reached with the department along with Frank C. Sass, president of the Water Board. Joining them are Mayor Francis R. Koenig (R), Edmond T. Cloonan, superintendent of the water department, and Aaron E. Klein, standing, right, city corporation counsel. The two-year contract calls for a $450 salary raise for the 33 employes covered the first year and $350 the second year. The contract also allows for an additional 26 weeks of sick leave through the New York State disability insurance program. The contract is subject to Common Council approval. B52 Bombers Head for DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers stepped up their attacks on North Vietnamese supply routes today as American artillery bombarded enemy troop positions along the southern edge of the demilitarized zone.

In the south, Viet Cong terrorists struck on the outskirts of Saigon and Da Nang. A grenade hurled into a government office building killed three civilians and wounded 10 others.

Military sources said that the B52, used for tactical support to South Vietnamese troops during their campaign in Laos, are shifting their attacks back to the mountains north of the DMZ.

Meanwhile, U.S. 175mm guns and 8-inch howitzers shelled North Vietnamese troops recently deployed further south in the DMZ.

The U.S. Command said that a forward air controller directed artillery onto enemy positions spotted four miles northwest of Gio Linh, the eastern end of the 40-mile-long DMZ.

Fifteen North Vietnamese troops were killed and nine bunkers were destroyed, the command said.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces trying to pull out of Khe Sanh and Ham Nghi were bombarded by North Vietnamese artillery. About 40 rounds slammed into Khe Sanh, the U.S. forward base for helicopter operations into Laos, and several Americans were reported killed and wounded.

Terrorists also destroyed 10 houses and kidnaped six civilians in attacks eight miles northwest and 15 miles south of Da Nang, headquarters announced.

In Cambodia, military spokesmen said government troops have launched a major drive aimed at driving enemy forces from a 10-mile section of Highway 4, the route banking Phnom Penh and the seaport of Kompong Son.

Lt. Col. Am Rong said that 13 of 14 trucks in a convoy were destroyed in an enemy ambush last Thursday on the highway southwest of the capital. Earlier he had reported only three trucks were knocked out.

Am Rong said that in some instances trucks were set afire by allied warplanes called in to bomb and strafe the abandoned convoy to prevent munitions from falling into enemy hands.

In Laos, government soldiers retreated to the outskirts of Luang Prabang today as Communist forces continued their advance on the royal Laotian capital 130 miles north of Vientiane.

Communist troops were reported as close as four miles to the city.

Government artillery shelled Communist - controlled hills north of the city and T28 bombers attacked enemy positions in an effort to halt the advance.

U.S.-advised guerrilla units, withdrawing to the capital, said they were forced to abandon Ban Doncho when Communist troops occupied Phou Louang Mountain overlooking their positions.

Ban Doncho, four miles north of Luang Prabang's airport, was the forwardmost position occupied by government forces in their recent sweep against Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese units.

Laotian officers in Luang Prabang said their troops had suffered some casualties but no figures were available.

Bravo Troop Walks Proud

YELLOW BRICK ROAD, Vietnam (AP) — The men of Bravo troop, who last week refused an order to advance down a highway near the Laotian border, are being transferred back to their parent unit "with their heads up and flags flying."

"They fought just like any American outfit should," said Lt. Col. Robert B. Osborne, commander of the 3rd Squadron, 5th Cavalry, who described the armored company's return to battle the past few days.

The 3rd Squadron took over Bravo troop after its 53 members refused to move out to retrieve some damaged equipment, claiming they would be risking an ambush.

No disciplinary action was taken against the men, but the troop commander was relieved for making what was called an "error in tactics." The troop was given a new commander and attached to the 3rd squadron for reorientation.

Osborne said Bravo troop would return in a few days to the 1st Squadron, 1st Cavalry of the Americal Division.

On Thursday, Bravo troop got into one of the heaviest ground fights that American forces have faced since the beginning of the westward drive that set up the South Vietnamese campaign into Laos. Six men from Bravo and reinforcing elements of the 3rd Squadron were killed and five were wounded.

Osborne said that during the early stages of the fighting, a North Vietnamese soldier threw a hand grenade that landed at the feet of one of his lieutenants. A man from Bravo Company quickly picked it up and hurled it back, but the grenade exploded close by and the Bravo trooper was killed, Osborne said.

Bravo troop and its reinforcements reported killing 36 North Vietnamese from what they think was a reinforced sapper, or demolition, company.

Osborne said the fighting began when a dozen men from Bravo dismounted from their tanks and armored personnel carriers to sweep a valley just off the Yellow Brick Road, a trail cut by the cavalry through the jungled mountains from Khe Sanh to Emerald City, the Squadron's forward support base to the northwest.

The Bravo patrol was hit, took casualties and fell back, unable to recover its dead and wounded. Reinforcements were moved up, and the men went back into the draw near a dry stream bed and were thrown back again with two more men killed.

They fought their way in a third time, trying to get the bodies out, and found a missing lieutenant they thought was dead. He was wounded in the leg and unable to walk.

"They started to take the lieutenant out of a litter," Osborne said, "but they came under fire again. They threw the litter away an took turns carrying the lieutenant up the side of the mountain to safety."

On Friday, Brig. Gen. John G. Hill Jr., commander of the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Division, flew from Khe Sanh to Emerald City to pin medals on a dozen of the men who had taken part in the action. But when he got there, they were already back in the draw trying to recover the dead they had left behind and the awards ceremony had to be postponed.

"I seldom had a troop which had higher morale than this. I couldn't ask for a better troop," he said.

Pakistani Civil War; India Ponders Action

NEW DELHI, INDIA Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi meeting with her cabinet in the nation's capital today deplored the fighting in East Pakistan and indicated strongly that her government was considering some (unspecified) action in connection with developments there.

"It is not merely a suppression of a movement, but it is meeting unarmed people with tanks," she told the Indian Parliament.

Meanwhile, the Associated Press reported that Pakistan troops, moving to crush a rebellion in East Pakistan, battled militiamen and civilians in several cities today and Radio Pakistan announced that the province's leader, Sheik Mujibur Rahman, was under arrest.

But Sheik Mujib later broadcast over a clandestine radio that he was still free and urged East Pakistanis to keep up their fight for independence.

The broadcast claimed that the Pakistan air force was dropping bombs on "liberation fighters." The United News of India said the army was using tanks.

Monitors in India quoted Sheik Mujib as saying he was in the port city of Chittagong, which unconfirmed reports reaching India said was in control of the Sheik's Awami League.

"I am okay, comrades—go ahead with your program to achieve the goal of freedom," the broadcast said. "Do not be misguided by enemy propaganda."

Supporters of the 51-year-old Awami League leader had already denied the report of his arrest and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi suggested the report "might be just propaganda."

Reports carried by Indian news agencies said casualties on both sides in the bloody civil war already run into the thousands.

United News said heavy fighting was raging throughout the province for the second straight day.

The Indian news agency said at least 50 persons were killed in Saidpur and that the streets of Rangpur were strewn with bodies of civilians.

A Radio Pakistan broadcast claimed the West Pakistan-dominated army was gaining the upper hand in its battle against East Pakistani loyalists and militiamen. It said martial law authorities in Dacca lifted for a nine-hour period from 7 a.m. local time today the 24-hour curfew imposed on the East Pakistan capital Friday.

United News reported from the Indian border town of Angartala that the army had occupied the headquarters of the East Pakistan Rifles, the provincial militia, in Comilla district after a prolonged fight. In another report from the eastern Indian state of Assam, it said that according to highly reliable reports from across the Pakistani border, at least 180 persons were killed early today in a clash between the army and East Pakistanis in the city of Comilla.

For several hours today, Indian monitors had not heard any broadcast from the clandestine "Voice of Independent Bangla Desh (Bengal Nation)," which was on the air intermittently in East Pakistan until late Friday.

The radio carried a message from Sheik Mujib Friday night proclaiming independence for the province, which is separated from West Pakistan by 1,000 miles of Indian territory.

Shortly afterwards, Pakistan President Mohammed Yahya Khan in a nationwide broadcast banned political activity throughout the country, outlawed the Awami League and accused Sheik Mujib of treason. He said Sheik Mujib and their Awami League leaders wanted to "break" Pakistan and "this is a crime which will not go unpunished."

After Account of Gas Chamber

Jury Gets Tate Case

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Tate murder trial jury weighed life or death today for Charles Manson and three young women after hearing a chilling account of death in San Quentin's gas chamber.

The case went to the jury late Friday afternoon for verdicts on punishment for the convicted murderers. The only alternatives were death or life imprisonment.

The seven men and five women were to deliberate at the Hall of Justice throughout today but not Sunday. They deliberated over a period of 10 days before finding Manson and his female followers guilty on Jan. 25.

Defense Attorney Paul Fitzgerald ended the final arguments in the 41-week-old trial with a graphic description of what it is like to die in the green-painted gas chamber and his words left the jurors, particularly the women, shaken.

Fitzgerald described in detail the mechanics of an execution and asked the jurors to image the girls being put to death. The three—Patricia Krenwinkel, Susan Atkins and Leslie Van Houten—sat motionless as they listed to his words.

He said the executions always occur at 10 a.m. with the warden, a lieutenant, two guards, a chaplain and 22 public witnesses on hand to look through the glass walls.

There are two chairs in the chamber so that two persons can be executed at the same time "for efficiency's sake." Because they are older, he said, Miss Krenwinkel and Susan Atkins probably would go first.

"The warden will lean over to them and say, 'Goodbye, Patricia; Goodbye, Susan.' "

"They will wear white blouses so they present a neat appearance to the witnesses and blue denim skirts. One guard will probably tell them, 'Take a deep breath when you first smell gas—it will be easier that way.'

"Then there will be their dying contortions and their bodies will sag against the straps and their heads will nod in one last movement of negation."

Fitzgerald asked the jurors to ask themselves one question: "If Jesus Christ were sitting next to you as a fellow juror, do you think he would give them the death sentence?"

Lawyer Irving Kanarek likened Manson's prosecution to the Crucifixion of Christ. When his presentation became lengthy, Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older cut him off in mid-sentence as he was quoting from the Bible.

KHS Exhibit at WAA

'Incredible!,' Says the Public of 11 Young Artists

Those words and others in a similar vein reflected the reactions of viewers at the opening of the totally excellent exhibition at the Woodstock Art Gallery, featuring the work of 11 Kingston High School art students. And the words rang true with the realization that these very serious artists were producing highly professional work at the age of only 16 or 17.

The WAA show, celebrating Youth Art Month and made possible by partial funding from the New York State Council on the Arts displays a lively range of various styles in many media. Unlike so many school art shows in which students tend to be imitative or to produce a kind of "canned" theme, the KHS exhibit is original and diverse in its treatment of subject matter.

A saucy caterpillar shod in numerous sets of neat shoes is the amusing contribution of Colleen Woodward, who also shows her drawing ability in a pair of old boots with ragged strings. Juxtaposed to her work in mood is a stunning triptych by Harry Stahl, who shows remarkable gifts in various media. The triptych is composed of three paintings of towers whose massive construction appears to consist of huge blocks, all marvelously modeled. An acerbic palette lends a surreal air to the icon-like conception. It's a sophisticated subject and Stahl, a first place award winner in the Sorosis of Kingston competition, carries it off with aplomb. A large painting of boldly colorful mushrooms by this young artist also impresses.

Gary Barten, another talented artist, demonstrates an uncanny dynamism. His drawings are powerful and he lends a vigorous imagination to his subject matter. Among those subjects: a stunning head of a man, an eerie pursuit entitled "The Chase," and a drawing of four "Soldiers" that's almost "Goyaesque" in character. Barten, another Sorosis prize-winner, is a "natural" and can look forward to a serious career in art.

Andy Hanscom also works well in a variety of styles. He shows distinctive drawing ability in his fishing boat scene and another black and white drawing. Also a highlight of the show is his clever head of a baby, derivative of Klee and especially fine.

A series of prints by Beth Roosa demonstrates her finely controlled sense of design and color, and photographic works by Ellen Sippel attest to her ability with a camera. Miss Sipple has contributed several stunning landscapes from nature, urban buildings shot from artistic angles, and some charmingly amusing shots of a young boy climbing a tree in those contorted poses that only a young boy could assume.

Greg Harris, Jim McGowen, Susan Kinsch, Mary Jane Freer and Pam Kitchener round out the show—and all make excellent contributions to the exhibit, which should certainly stand as a model for the display of all high school art. Mary Jane Freer possesses the ability to switch from one style to another, proof of which is demonstrated in her side-by-side works of a downy duck in muted colors and a black and white drawing of a modern miss, handbag slung over shoulder as she saunters through a grove of surrealistic trees.

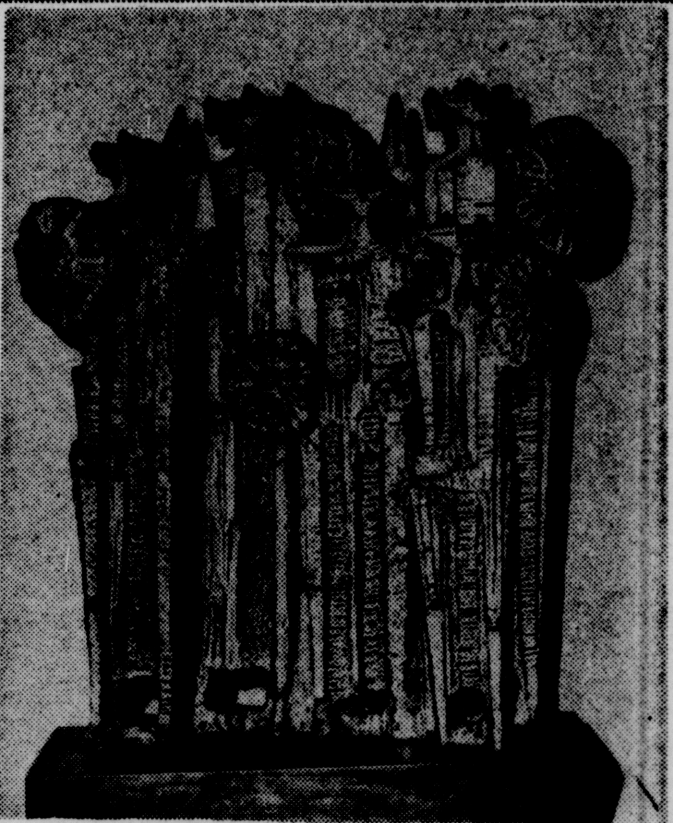
A special word of praise for Pam Kitchner, another Sorosis winner, whose head of a stately and turbaned negress hangs at the entrance to the show and heralds the excellence of what looms ahead in the gallery. Miss Kitchener knows how to use political comment to give relevance to her art, particularly in a drawing of a black mother holding her infant against the backdrop of a chipped plaster wall.

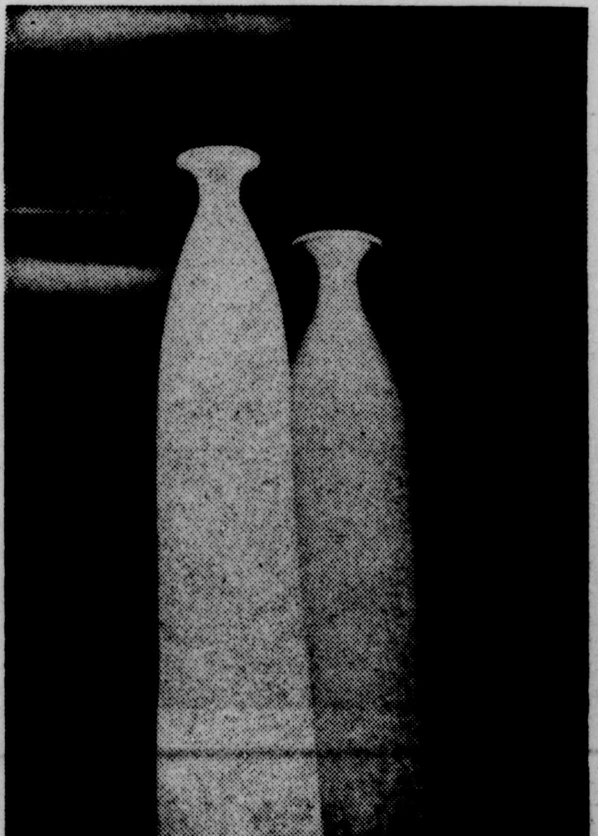
TEMPO urges all Kingstonians and all other Ulsterites as well to see this show of Kingston High School artists at the Woodstock Artist Gallery now through March 31. Exhibition hours are 1-5 p.m. today and tomorrow, and 3-5 p.m. Monday through Wednesday. This is a display of youthful talent all of us can view with pride, for it is a testament to the very rare artistic abilities of Kingston's young people and to the dedication of their art teachers.

Masterful Ceramics By A Master Of His Art

TRIO OF FIGURES in white glazed terra cotta is an example of the highly artistic craftsmanship of of Kenneth Green, Professor of Ceramics at State University College, New Paltz. Titled "SINGERS," the work was executed by Green in 1960; is featured in his current retrospective exhibition.



"WARRIORS" with spears and shields raised high are the subject of this Kenneth Green work, also in white glazed terra cotta, and created in 1961 by the prolific artist. Some 200 examples of his work are now on view through April 7 at the College Art Gallery in New Paltz.



AFTER THE CIVIL WAR, U.S. potters produced millions of jugs for the booming liquor industry. Green's slender and shapely bottles are far more lovely than their 19th century counterparts. These tall, glossy bottles in porcelain, done in 1970, are among the most recent works by the artist in his current retrospective show at Paltz.

STONEWARE has been utilized by Green in this work, done in 1965 and entitled "Large Standing White Mountain." Sophisticated style illustrates how far pottery-making has progressed since the days when its exponents concentrated on storage crocks for salted meats, pickles and beans, or thick pottery containers to keep milk, butter and cheeses cool.

GREEN'S CERAMICS evoke a visual response from viewers and this work, entitled "OCEANA," is both visually and technically perfect. In glazed white stoneware, it was done in 1964 by the Kansas born artist who has taught at New Paltz since 1957. His show on campus there now is composed of work from various periods, as well as current work.

Something New Under the Musical Sun!

Bringing up the rear are (l-r) Sheryl Baker, Patrick Mullany, and Carman San Jose. (All photos by Freeman photographer Bob Haines)

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

The tinkling notes of "To Paree," as light and as gay as the city itself, wove a rhythmic pattern, then ended in a flourish as the musicians struck the keys with a vigorous, sustained sweep of the wooden hammers.

The effect was impressive. There was a quick burst of applause from the audience of one and the musicians accepted it with smiles that out-dazzled the August sun.

Then they straightenned up to their full three-to-four foot heights and flashed gamin grins in the direction of their teacher. The second, third, fourth and fifth graders had shown, as they had several times before, how well children can play after short months of study in the Carl Orff Method of music education.

An Orff Exponent

The audience of one in this instance was the writer and the youthful musicians were the students of a leading Orff exponent, Robert Moore, music teacher at Kingston's Edson Elementary School.

Moore's pupils are among the lucky few in this entire area being taught in this unique educational system, developed to promote total musical participation through use of rhythm, speech patterns, movement and special instruments. Orff's philosophy has been spreading across the U.S., in everwidening rings, but Edison instructor Moore is the first to use the teaching method locally.

"Method," however, doesn't really say it all. It's an idea, a philosophy about teaching and techniques that comes down to a few essential points.

Total musical participation with the student always completely involved in making music immediately, by singing and playing simultaneously; being aware of all parts in the same manner as singers in an ensemble or instrumentalists in a band; and using the faculties of mind, ears, eyes and body at once.

Relates to Child's World

Starting with rhythm, not taught mechanically nor mathematically by subdividing the whole into beats — but by feeling for rhythm through speech patterns, Orff relates to the child's world by using nursery rhymes lines from children's stories, proverbs and nonsense verse.

To these, he adds bodily rhythms like clapping, patchem (playing the hands on the knees), stamping, and snapping — bodily rhythms easily transferred to instruments — since these movements are essentially the same large muscle movements as those used in playing the instruments. Orff encourages, too, an awareness of musical form (unison, two or more parts, solo and chorus, rondo

Magnificent Cantata Attuned to the Easter Season

.. We watched Him die . . . Salome, Mary and I — who had followed the Master from Galilee to care for His daily needs as the end drew near. On the day He was crucified we could do no more than stand as spectators, away from the crowd that pressed closely about the three crosses.

So said Mary of Magdala and, today, as we again celebrate the ancient religious festival of hope and faith that is Easter, one special program of the Lenten season is worthy of Tempo's praise — and well worth your attendance.

Whatever your religion or spiritual belief, you will respond when the massed choir of Kingston Area Council of Churches performs Donald Romme's cantata, "The Cross of Christ." It will be the special feature of a Union Lenten Service at Fair Street Reformed Church tomorrow, Sunday, March 28 at 7:30 p.m.

Few such programs have utilized the talents of so many locally acclaimed soloists. Featured in prominent roles in the moving cantata will be soprano Betty Lindsay, controlato Geraldine Nathan, and baritone John Rich, all soloists at Fair Street Reformed.

Betty Lindsay has gleaned acclaim in many musical circles throughout the Hudson Valley. A member of Onteora Summer Chorus and Ulster County Choral Society, she has been in frequent demand as a featured soloist. To her appearances in Kiwanis Kapers and Kingston Hospital Follies, add her tour with the Yankee Male Chorus through New England. Area residents will also remember her fine performance in the lead role of Coach House players' production of "South Pacific". Since then, she has appeared in other musicals staged by that theater group, including such runaway hits as "Pajama Game," "The King and I," and "the Sound of Music."

The rich contralto voice of Geraldine Nathan will add much of inspiration to "The Cross of Christ." A former student of Leonard Stine and singer with numerous choral groups, she's an active member of Musical Society of Kingston, Ulster County Choral Society, and frequently appears as soloist at Temple Emanuel.

Always in demand as a guest artist, she has appeared often in recital at Lake Minnewaska and as soloist with Kingston's Mendelssohn Club and the Onteora Summer Chorus.

Baritone John Rich also studied with Leonard Stine; was soloist with Kingston High School's A Cappella Choir; has sung with numerous choirs in New York City. Long associated with Rondout Presbyterian Church, he sang in an Army church choir in Korea while in the service.

To these fine soloists will be added the talents of several fine instrumentalists, including pianist Howard Houghtaling, organist Gloria Clark, and tympanist Kenneth Windram.

Conducting the cantata Sunday will be Percy Gazlay, Minister of Music at Fair Street Church and a man honored more than once for bringing fine music to the community. Conductor of both the Onteora Summer Chorus and Ulster County Choral Society, he undertook the coordination of the elaborate productions of "Elijah" and "Sampson" locally with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra. How highly he is esteemed in the musical field is reflected in the fact that he won this year's Page One Award for Music from the Kingston Newspaper Guild.

Gazlay picked "The Cross of Christ" for presentation this Easter season because of its beautiful musical score. Published in 1953, it has become one of the most popular cantatas for churches in the U.S. and thousands of copies have been sold. Written by composer Donald Roome while he was Minister of Music here at the Old Dutch Church, the work is dedicated to that church's choir.

Roome will attend the performance here Sunday evening and, for many of the singers in the massed choir, the program will have special significance. This will be a return engagement since they sang in the original production of this magnificent cantata. Together and once again, then, they will present a musical production that should long be rememebered by everyone who hears it as a highlight of the 1971 Easter celebration.

A Poetry Reading in a Wine Cellar

Poetry readings attract wide audiences these days and no exception should be the reading featuring New Paltz's Donald Belling and Bloomington's George Montgomery. Not only will the program itself be interesting, but its site is unique. Plans call for the reading to be held Monday, March 29 at 10 p.m. in the wine cellar of the Homestead.

Other local and area poets are invited to bring their material and join in readings during a portion of the time.

Paltz poet Bellinger has had works published in Gargoyle and is active in the theatre. Montgomery has a novel due for publication shortly, has been published in many anthologies, and was formerly an active poet on the Greenwich Village scene.

Fugs Star Slated

Tad Richards, who is coordinating a series of readings, says Tuli Kupferberg of New York City will appear in an April reading. Kupferberg is the author of 'Morning Morning' and a member of the Fugs, the rock group that cut several best-selling albums and toured the world.

The Homestead is at the corner of Chestnut and Main Street in New Paltz and there will be no admission charged at the reading. So get thee to the wine cellar and go Omar one better.

Fun Concert of Gospel and Rock

DAN SMITH, whose black gospel and folk songs are always a hit wherever he goes—and he goes everywhere—will be a featured performer at tonight's just-for-fun concert in Woodstock at the WAA Gallery on the Village Green.

Plan to be at the Woodstock Art Gallery tonight, Saturday, March 27, at 7:30 p.m. when The Redstreet Band and Dan Smith, the "fabulous harmonica player," perform.

Smith played at the National, Newport, Fox Hollow and Hudson River Sloop Folk Festivals and has made nationwide TV appearances on the educational network. He is recorded by the Library of Congress and has made numerous radio and coffee house as well as college appearances. The venerable Smith plays black gospel and folk songs accompanied by his mouth harp.

The Redstreet Bank has been developing a distinctive style since its first performance in October of 1969. The Bank has performed at Woodstock, Southern Connecticut State College, Marist College and on many other campuses; has worked in Canada and England as well as the U.S., and appeared on TV with Woodstock's Sonia Makine. She has again booked them for their next TV series on ETV and plans to cut her next LP record album with the Band.

The Redstreet Band plays all types of music from rock to country and jazz. They have incorporated many of these sounds into a folk lstyle which is expressive and unique as well original. Tickets are $2 each and will be available at the door.

Tony Preston's Theater Seminar

Black playwright Tony Preston visits Orange County Community College Thursday, April 1, for a day of conversation and classroom discussions on contemporary American theater.

Currently director of Theater Market Place, Inc., Preston will conduct an 11 a.m. seminar in room 111, Harriman Hall, on the contemporary theater, and then visit afternoon and evening classes in theater and literature on the Middletown campus.

Preston formed his first theatrical group, the York Dramatics Society, at the age of 16 in his hometown of York, Pa. A graduate of York College, he studied playwriting at New York University and The Negro Ensemble Workshop. He was founder of The Old Reliable Theater Tavern where he produced works by more than 30 playwrights.

His plays have been performed in several off-Broadway theaters, and two of his one-act works, "On the Road" and "Rags and Old Iron," toured State University of New York compuses including OCCC in 1969-70 with the Black Drama Workshop of Buffalo. The tour will be continued this year with the addition of his latest play, "Willus Way is not a Violent Man."

The Harlem Players' 'North Star' Shines Tonight in Dutchess

To celebrate the Wappingers Falls Centennial, County Players of Dutchess County is presenting "NORTH STAR SHINING," by the East River Players, as its annual bonus production. The performance is set for tonight, Saturday, March 27, 8:40 p.m. at Wappingers Junior High School, Ramson Avenue.

East River Players has the distinction of being Harlem's first professional repertory company, and" North Star Shining" is a staging of black poetry and excerpts from plays by Mical Whitaker, the troupe's founder-director.

Currently working under a $25,000 grant from the New York State Council of the Arts, which has allowed them to expand their professional theatre work in Harlem, the Players have recently appeared at New York's Hudson Guild Theatre in performances of James Baldwin's "Amen Corner," and in Herlem, Jamaica and New Jersey with "Adventures in Blackness."

Has Toured Extensively

Now in residence in Harlem's Union Settlement, East River Players has toured major colleges and universities throughout New York since it premiered in 1964 with "Medea" at Mills College. The troupe has also traveled extensively throughout the northeast, stopping at churches, schools and festivals with its repertory of 15 productions, ranging in scope from Sophocles' "Electra" to Langston Hughes' "Simply Heavenly" to Sonia Sanchez' "Sister Sonji."

Since "North Star Shining" is County Players' bonus production, there will be no charge for admission tonight to Players' members and only $1 will be charged for all others. The presentation is open to the public as part of the Village of Wappingers Falls Centennial Celebration. Tickets will be available at the door.

One-Man Show for Henry Betak

An exhibition of new paintings and drawings by contemporary New York artist Henry Betak has opened on the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College. The show will continue through April 6, and is on view in the Visual Arts Gallery of the John Burroughs Science Building at UCCC.

As usual, there is no admission charge and the display of Betak's work is open to the public during regular college hours, Monday through Friday.

The artist is presently teaching at Skidmore College in Saratoga Springs. As a Professor of Arts there, he has been honored with many exhibitions in the east and midwest. His current one-man show at UCCC includes many of his most recent works. He is also represented in various private collections throughout the United States, England and Japan.

Betak's exhibitions have included the "National Print and Drawing Competition" in Knoxville, Tenn., "Purdue National Invitational Exhibition" in Quarryville, Pa., and the Munson-Williams-Proctor Institute's "Artists of Central New York Exhibition" in Utica.

A native of Pottsville, Pa., artist Betak was educated at the Tyler School of Art of Temple University where he earned BFA and MFA degrees. In addition, he has studied at the Philadelphia College of Art and the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts.

Artist at Work

Wooodstock artist-instructor Franklin Alexander will paint a portrait of his model at his regular scheduled New Paltz class on Monday, March 29 at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to the demonstration which is slated in Room 200, Smiley Art Building, State University College, New Paltz.

Anyone interested in Portrait and Figure Painting instruction will want to know tht there are still a few vacancies in Alexander's class in that subject Some vacancies still exist, too, in Dr. Henry Raleigh's Beginners and Intermediate class.

Both courses are sponsored by the New Paltz Art Association, and those wishing further information should call the group's secretary, Miss Lucile Stephens, at 255-1364.

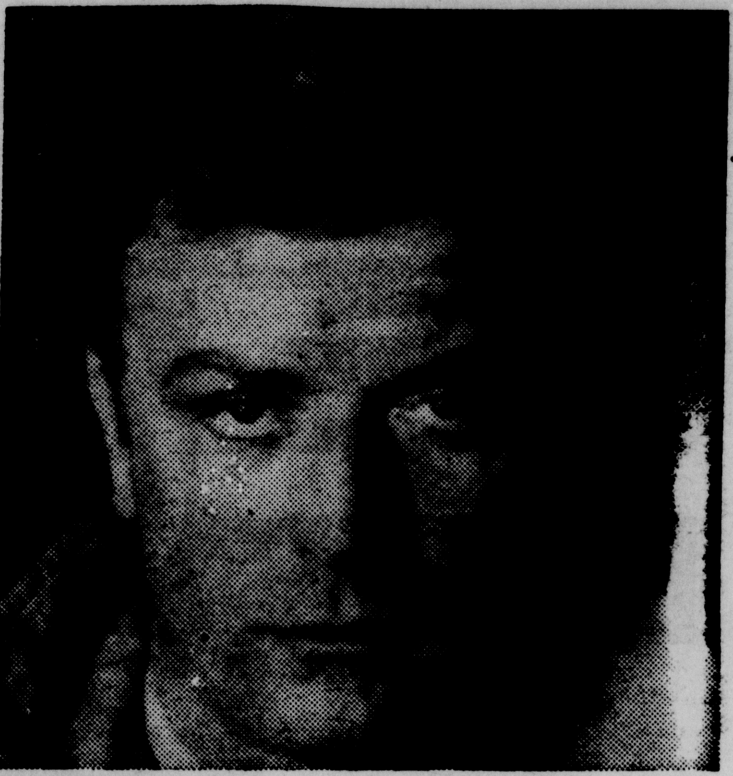
MOVIES

JAPANESE FLYERS hover in the skies above Perl Harbor, ready to launch the bombing on "the day of infamy" that catapaulted the U. S. into the Second World War. Scene is from "Tora! Tora! Tora!," the movie that tells the story of December 7, 1941 from both the Japanese and American sides. It's now on screen at Kingston's Mayfair Theatre.



MICHAEL CAINE takes off on a detective mission in "GET CARTER," and great it is to see him back in the type of hard-hitting film in which he excels. The movie, a zingy tale of criminaal vice, is the current attraction at Kingston's Community Theatre.

Get Carter.

Michael Caine is once again the old Michael Caine who really moved us in films like "Alfie" before his superstardom forced him into several recent movies of little or no merit. And where he comes off as the Caine of old is in "Get Carter," the zing-a-long picture now playing at Kingston's Community.

Highly contemporary and fast-paced, "Get Carter" has its roots in those fine detective films that emanated years back from the pens of such authors as Dashiell Hammett and Raymond Chandler. But it's far better technically than any of its predecessors — and has profited by Hollywood's new found ability to portray criminal vice more realistically.

Caine emotes in high style and his portrait of a member of a London syndicate who gets sent off on a detective mission is every bit as good as was his scathing rendition of that meanest of all womanizers, Alfie. His assignment is to invade the territory of a Newcastle gang to find out the truth of his brother's drunken-driving death. Clue follows clue cleverly, and each of Caine's encounters works neatly into the overall plot.

You'll Have Fun

If you're on your toes — picking up every nuance and lie as does the detective hero, you'll have great fun unravelling the puzzle and fitting all the pieces together.

All in all, great entertainment for any fan of detective or private eye fiction, with Caine letter perfect in his role of suave and ruthless tracker-trapper. Fine performance, too, by playwright John Osborne as a poker-playing ganglord.

Other Choices

(Previously reviewed in Tempo)

TORA! TORA! TORA! Now at Kingston's Mayfair, this mammoth recreation of the events leading up to the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. Three years in the making, filmed on locations in Japan, Hawaii and Washington, D.C., the film traces the events culminating in the attack of Dec. 7, 1941 — "the date of infamy" — that catapulted America into World War II. Story's told from both sides as it occurred on the highest diplomatic, political and military levels; climaxes in a full scale restaging of the attack itself.

THE STATUE. Tasteless waste of David Niven's talents in this offering at Rosendale Theatre. The former Oscar winner has allowed himself to be cast as a jealous diplomat husband who spends his waking hours trying to track down the man who modeled for his sculptress wife — or at least modeled some small portion of the nude statue that's supposed to be all Niven — but isn't, as Niven's mirror so obviously tells him.

offer this film, nominated for

JOE Red Hook's Lyceum and Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema offer this film nominated for an Academy Award and featuring an inspired performance by newcomer Peter Boyle as a factory worker. The murder of his daughter's hippie-lover brings an ad agency executive into close contact with hardhat Joe and face to face with some ugly truths about middle-class America. Brilliant performances help make this a fascinating drama. (By Tobie Geertsema)

FRANKLIN ALEXANDER

Audubon Society Elects Alexander

Woodstock Artist Franklin Alexander, a part-time faculty member with Dutchess Community College's department of visual arts technologies, has been elected to membership in the Audubon Soceity.

Professor Alexander joined the Dutchess art faculty in 1970 and previously taught in Woodstock and Albany art schools. He attended the Art Students League, New School for Social Research, and the University of Florence.

In 1969 he was awarded the coveted Stefan Hirsch Memorial Prize in painting by the Audubon Soceity. This year he served on its awards jury with such other notable artists as Jacon Lawrence and Antonio Frasconi.

Futuristic Drama

One of ABC's "Movie of the Week" shows being prepared for the 1971-72 season is "The Day They Took the Babies Away," a futuristic drama about a time when the government controls the right of a couple to have a second child.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN WOINOSKI

Well, it's all over again for another year. St. Patty's night, that is. Aroma of corned beef and cabbage has finally been replaced at Port Ewen's Cardinal Inn where a party of 60 fought battle-of-bulge and celebrated same with some wee drops of crature (Irish for gigglewater). John O'Banks was made honorary Irishman of Year on that night when green is supreme, while Sharon Barber copped award as Miss Shamrock. Also sharing limelight with St. Pat was Millie Oldenburg who was havin' a happy . . .

* * *

Breathes there a soul who has not heard that "operator" Monsieur X was a model in recent Freeman fashion show? Fellow employes were so proud of their fair-haired boy, they presented him bouquet of flowers . . . pink carnations, to be exact, and joined in rendition of "Ain't She Sweet."

Hear tell Mr. X is a shirttail relation to Chuck Connors of TV fame; obviously talent runs in family. His friends are presuming Freeman show is beginning of fabulous career with scores of future modeling engagements on the horizon. (However, everyone hopes Mr. X will always remember where he got his start!)

* * *

Hip Hip Hoo-ray, and
A pat-on-the-back
To Ulster County Savings
For the "Farmers' Almanac."

Published 154 consecutive years and known coast to coast as a truly all-American institution, today's Almanac boasts circulation of more than four million. Used as a public relations, good-will gesture to people of community, it carries no advertisements other than sponsor's message.

1971 edition contains: Capsules of Wisdom, Terse Verse, general weather predictions (pleasant summer forecasted, by the way), recipjes, wife savers, limericks, game laws, tide table. BUT, Signs-of-the-Time really broke us up. Too good to keep to ourselves, we'd like to share:

Sign at cemetery — "Due to employment difficulties, gravedigging will be done for the present by skeleton staff."

Sign on park lawn — "Your feet are killing me."

Sign in pawnshop — "Hock it to me, baby."

Sign in nudist camp — "Open day and night; we never clothe."

Sign in restaurant — "Eat now; pay waiter."

Sign in music store — "Gone Chopin; back at two."

On behalf of all who need a ha-ha after a worse-than-average winter, to Jack St. John and UCSB officials we say thanks, thanx, thanques!

Back Where He Began

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — William Holden's arrival in Nogales, Ariz., for "The Wild Rovers" coincided exactly with his first assignment in the town 30 years ago for "Arizona."

Directs Cosby

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Television director E. W. Swackhamer will make his debut as a movie director putting Bill Cosby through his paces in "Man and Boy" for Jemmin, Inc.

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

NOW THAT SPRING'S HERE can Easter be far behind? You know the answer: The Easter Bunny is hippity-hopping his way hitherward, and will arrive in just two weeks. Well, we're ready at ROBERTO'S! We don't have to change our menu one jot of tittle, because we're serving for Easter Sunday exactly what we serve every other day, AT NO INCREASE IN PRICES!

Only one addition: The Traditional Holiday Turkey Dinner, with all the fancy fixin's, for $5.95. And to head off all questions: YES! That includes your before-dinner Cocktail, your Shrimp or Clams Roberto for appetizer, your Salad, Dessert, Beverage . . . everything you get on ROBERTO'S regular dinner. And there's the SPECIAL CHILDREN'S EASTER DINNER at $3.95, with choice of Turkey, Duckling or Prime Ribs for Entree. And as I intimated before, our EASTER SUNDAY DINNER will start from the regular daily $5.50.

One thing more: I'm asking all my friends (Catholic, Protestant and Jewish) for a little ecumenical help. I want you all to go to church and synagogue and pray for a sunny Easter Sunday. And if there are any Moslems or Buddhists available, I'll welcome their help, too!

LET ME TELL YOU the unvarnished truth about the pleasures of enjoying mid-week Dinner at Roberto's . . . and I'm merely reciting facts when I tell you that you actually get more enjoyment in mid-week dining than on a weekend. Not that I'm unhappy about our accustomed weekend crowds . . . I'm just unhappy that so many people call for reservations for the crowded hours, and we simply have to refuse some.

Taking reservations for Saturday or Sunday is not a simple matter; you figure that a table booked for five o'clock will ordinarily depart before seven-thirty; so you take a reservation for 7:30 for that table. Now the folks are having a good time, and maybe met some friends here, and start chewing the fat . . . and the 7:30 folks are biting their nails, unless we can find a table where someone else unexpectedly has moved out ahead of time. Obviously we can't hint to the other folks that their table has been reserved for 7:30 . . . you wouldn't want us to do that to you, would you?

If you must dine on Saturday or Sunday, we'll do our level best to get you seated on time. But if you're planning any kind of a celebrative dinner, or just a meal that you'd like to enjoy to the fullest, think about a week night; you'll not only enjoy the elbow room, the leisure, the lack of pressure, but you'll also enjoy all the extra little niceties and individual touches that no busy restaurant can hope to provide on a weekend or holiday.

WHICH REMINDS ME that I can't repeat this advice too often: If you're thinking about any kind of special party or celebrative dinner, it's never too soon to start planning; and it's certainly never too soon to come in and see for yourself how much more Roberto's gives you for your money. I don't claim we can suit every budget, but if you can go as much as $4.00 a guest for a lavish full course dinner (including a cocktail at no extra cost) you owe it to yourself and your party to scan our menu, and to consider the kind of atmosphere, cuisine and service you'll get here. Of course, if a few cents makes a difference, we'll have to bow out. Roberto is a stubborn man when it comes to serving anything less than his standard of quality and completeness in a meal.

But I think that once you've compared the difference in what you get, dollar for dollar, you'll let Roberto prepare your party dinner. Of course, if you've been to a party or two here yourself, you probably already know that no place in The Valley matches Roberto's Continental Cuisine.

MISH AND MASH

A lot of MARK GARRISON enthusiasts will be happy to know that we're now having the pleasure of his Organ Artistry THREE nights a week . . . Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Just proves that sometimes you can't get too much of a good thing.  to all who have been lauding the dancing fun we had on St. Patrick's eve, and nidgering me about repeating the idea: I'm thinking, I'm thinking! And don't breathe a word of this except maybe over the phone or the back fence, but something like that is liable to happen soon. When did I ever turn a deaf ear to my customers' desire to enjoy? Watch for further developments. * * * Of course, you know that we've already created a dance floor in the Cocktail Lounge, for Saturday Nights especially . . . and any other time there's music around and the after-dinner crowd feels like shaking a snappy foot. Drop around tonight if you feel in the mood to woo Terpsichore. (How's that for a high-class way to say "Let's Dance!") To recall an old Irving Berlin song that I learned was popular back about 1915 . . . DANCE AND GROW THIN!

Two by Tom Eaton

ILLUSTRATION BY WOODSTOCK Artist Tom Eaton from "An Animal for Alan," the story about a little boy's search for a pet, demonstrates Eaton's clever approach to drawing for youngsters. Eye-catching and detailed illustration is one of many he has done for the publishing firm of Harper and Row, who utilize his talents for their "Science I CAN READ Books" for children.

AND ANOTHER PICTURE by Tom Eaton, drawn especially for "Steven and the Green Turtle," authoried by William J. Cromie and centering on the story of a Costa Rican boy who rescues a baby sea turtle and raises it. The Woodstocker's illustrations have a special appeal to elementary school youngsters, who enjoy the pictures that accompany the fascinating science texts they illustrate.

Something New Under the Musical and rhythmic canon) . . . . and he always encourgase creativity, allowing youngsters to play their own solos, make up an accompaniment, or improvise with a set meter.

Finally, sensitivity to music is encouraged through movement to rhythm and spoken verse, by folk and square dancing, and by responding to music through movement to develop awareness, gracefulness, sensitivity and responsiveness.

On a visit to Moore's class this week, it was obvious this new approach to music education has paid off at Edson School. Happier faces we have never seen inside the confining walls of a classroom. Playing for these youngsters was pure pleasure, never to be considered a chore. Competition was out and sharing and cooperating was in.

Up stood a class of sixth graders to demonstrate a hand drumming exercise. With evident ease they played different rhythmic patterns not only in unison, but in canon, one part starting and continuing after the other had begun. With a conga-like beat, the entire group put it all together, then broke off into sections — sometimes doing two songs together and sometimes marching as they played.

Preparing the Instruments

The Edson School music room is new and modern, shiny-bright and sunwashed. And, following the sixth grade hand drummers on stage, second, third, fourth and fifth graders clutched their Orff instruments proudly and prepared them for their part of our visit by adding or removing various keys.

The instruments, with the exception of the string bass were of the percussion family; made in Germany of Brazilian wood in the case of the alto and soprano xylophones. Used, too, are metal glockenspiels and metalophones. All keys on all instruments are removable so the player needs only those keys necessary for his part in the piece on his instrument at the time of playing any given number. This makes for fewer coordination problems, less frustration on the part of the child, and — if the young music maker is playing a melodic pattern involving four notes — all non-essential keys are removed to lessen the possibility of playing that ever-threatening wrong note..

In front of the second-through-fifth graders, like a modern day Pied Piper, went their teacher. They watched conductor Moore attentively as he set the tempo and, at a given signal, began to play and accompany themselves in singing "To Paree," as arranged by Moore.

Eagerly they went through the patterns with such enthusiasm and total enjoyment in making music together that it was a delight to see them and hear them. So much music comes pouring from their instruments that the effect is of a full band or orchestra. Fat little hands hold hammers, bells, and tambourines and, in the case of the tympanist and bassist, drumsticks and a bow. And, in the doing, they learn a lot of rhythm.

Spring Festival

The rehearsal we sat through was in preparation for a musical spring concert at the Edson School in May. The Orff musicians will perform, but so will many other talented players since the Orff method is only a part of the total music program threre.

From what we observed on our visit to Moore's class, we'd say the Edson Spring Festival promises superlative entertainment. Watch for the date come May and plan to go. If you do, you'll find that in the latter part of the 20th century, a new art form has emerged — one that assures that music will continue to play an important role in the lives of your children in a very meaningful way. Music in our schools must continue to develop and grow — and it must be contemporary. At Edson, it is!

A Vacation Kit Of Free Things

A free New York City "1971 Vacation Planning Kit" is offered to those who drop a card or letter to: N. Y. Convention and Visitors Bureau, 90 East 42nd Street, New York, N. Y. 10017.

New lists of "20 Free Things To Do" and "13 Off-Beat Sights" are special features of the 1971 kit. It also contains a full-color Visitor's Guide and Map (available in eight languages), a Weekend Folder, and pocket-size guides to hotels, restaurants, stores and shops. A calendar of events lists theatres and films, sports, art, music and dance, children's activities, sightseeing attractions, conventions and exhibits.

To remind visitors of the uniqueness of a New York City visit, the N. Y. Convention and Visitors Bureau has selected "18 Only-in-New York Sights for 1971" as the theme of its 18th annual "New York Is a Summer Festival!" season. A list of all the sights — which include the Statue of Liberty, Staten Island Ferry, Greenwich Village, Empire State Building, Rockefeller Center, the U.N. and Harlem—is contained in the Vacation Planning Kit.

Groups planning to visit New York are asked to write the Visitors Bureau's Group Tour Dept. for group rates and a Tour Leader's Guide.

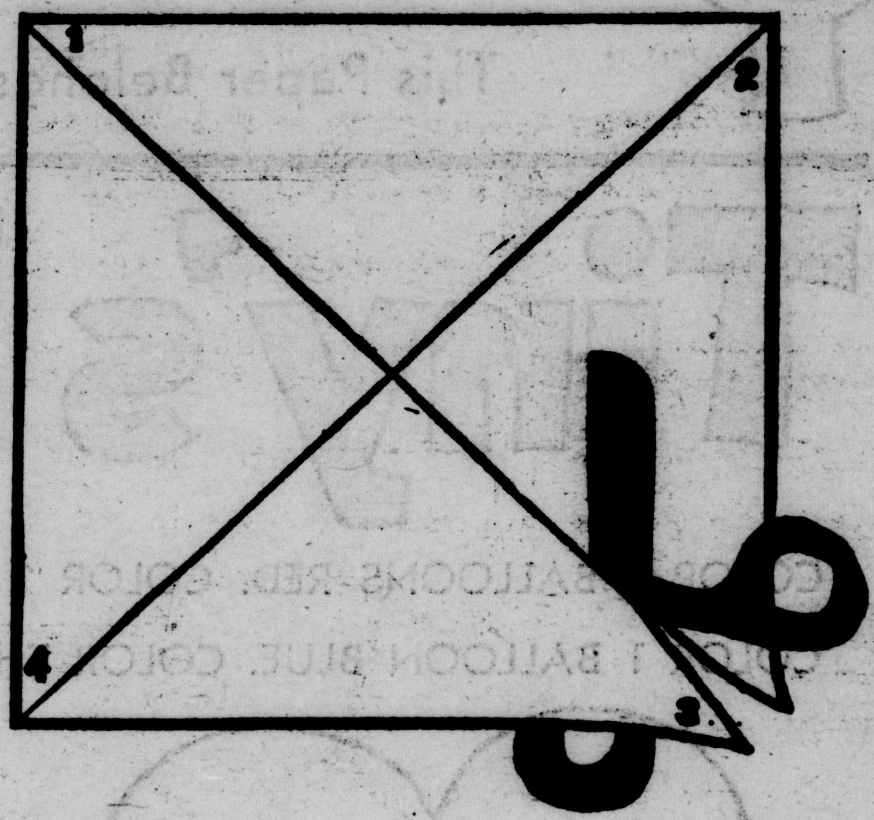
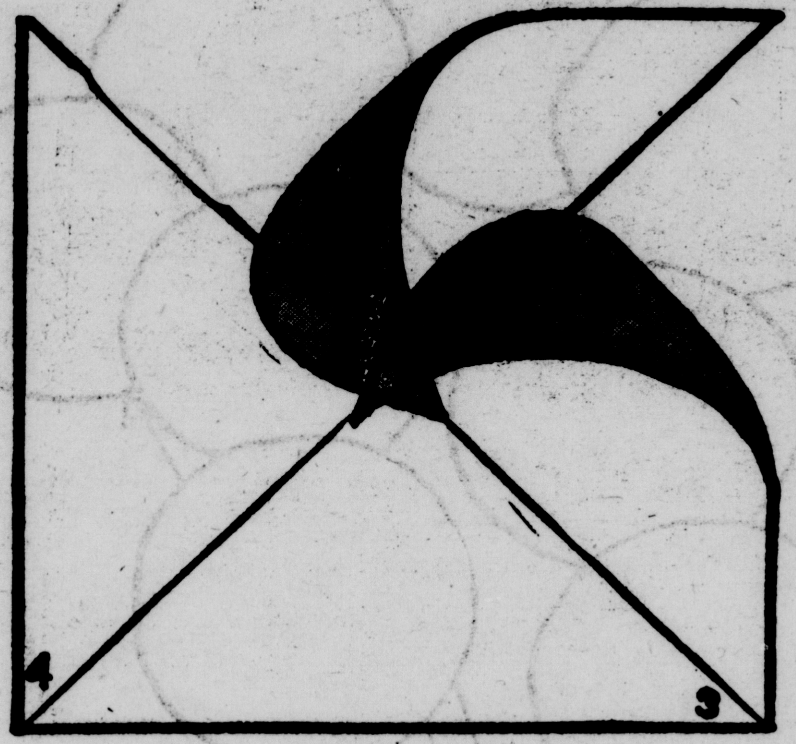
MAKE A PINWHEEL

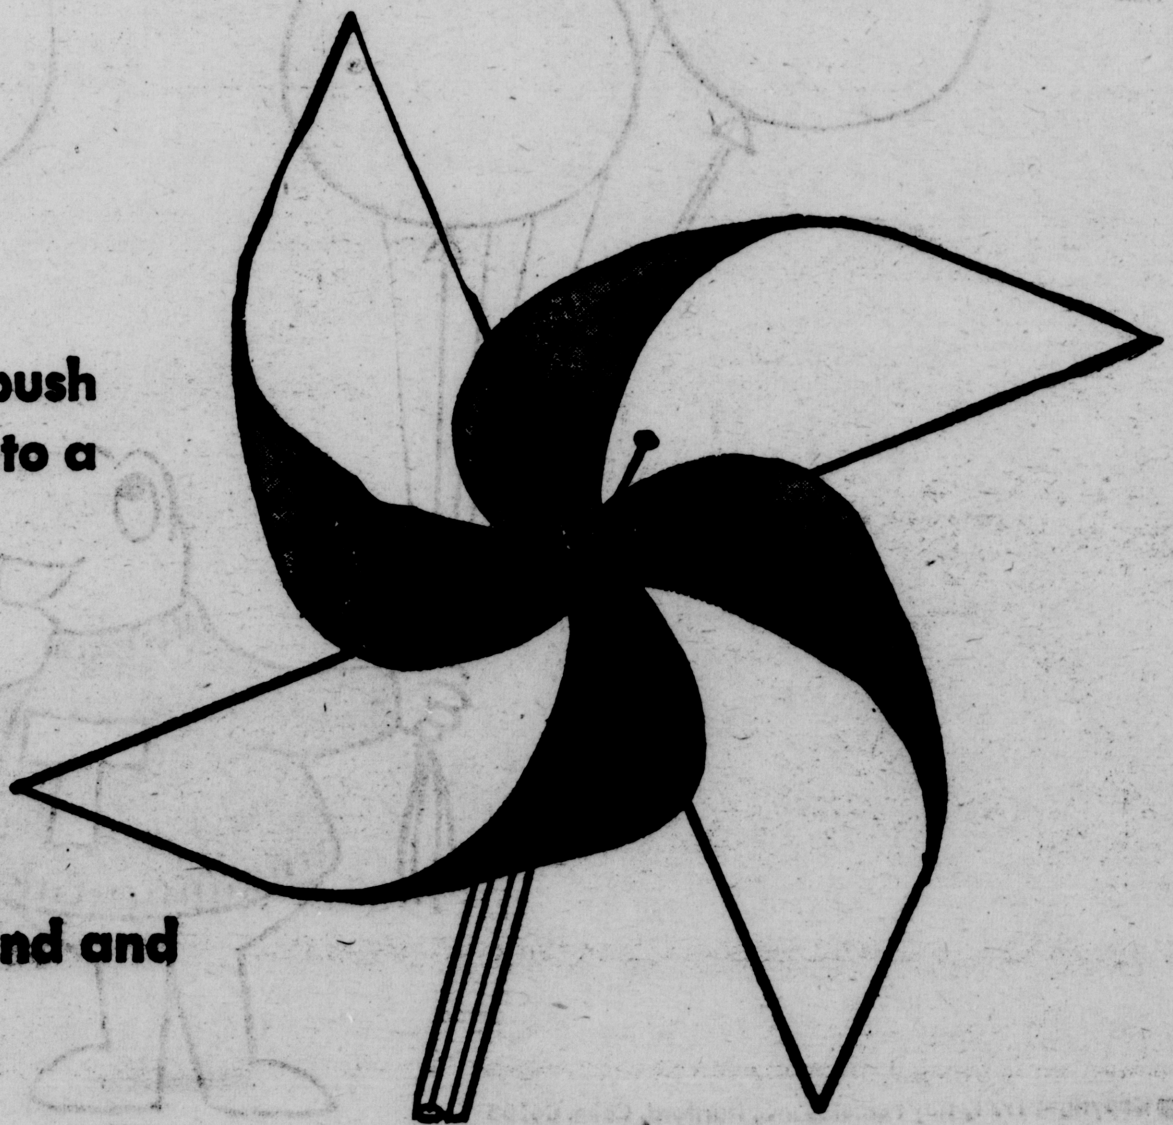


Start with a square piece of heavy paper. Draw straight lines from corner to corner, then number each corner like this.

With your scissors, cut along each line toward the center, but be sure not to cut all the way to where the lines cross.



Bend corner number 1 toward the center. Do the same with corners 2, 3 and 4, holding each one in place as you do the next one.



When all 4 corners are folded over, push a pin through the center and then into a long stick, straw or pencil.

Now hold your pinwheel into the wind and watch it spin.
